Fate of Controversial Sheehan Building Uncertain after Another Zoning Rejection

The Borough Zoning Board by a 4-0 vote at 2:30 last Saturday morning refused to give Timothy J. Sheehan permission to stack two more floors on top of his unfinished building so that he could construct 24 duplex apartments.

The fate of the building, on the corner of Nassau and Markham, is now uncertain.

Mr. Sheehan says he will not appeal. He told the Zoning Board that the structure is virtually worthless as it now stands, and that adding the two floors with their apartments, was "the only way we could think of to complete the building."

"This building, economically, is not going to fly," was the flat statement of Mr. Sheehan's attorney, William Baggitt.

Only one offer of purchase has been made, Mr. Sheehan said, and that was well over a year ago. It came from Alvin Gershen, the planner, who had suggested a purchase price of $100,000 for land and the uncompleted building.

When Michael Rockland, of the Zoning Board, asked why Mr. Sheehan hadn't gone ahead when the Board gave him permission to expand the building's retail space in 1975, Mr. Sheehan said that banks would not lend him money for the project.

"Well, what's to stop anyone from bringing a building to a certain point and then saying to a Zoning Board, 'Now you've got to help me?'" Mr. Rockland asked.

Mr. Sheehan then outlined to the board the history of the building.

"The Borough created a new zone after we'd started building," Mr. Sheehan said. "Mine was the only property affected. We couldn't build, under that new ordinance, and I spent three years in court getting my building permit back. The building ended up under Title II (the bankruptcy statute)."

By the time the courts said the Borough would have to give him his building permit, Mr. Sheehan said, 1971 building costs were prohibitive. Given 1968 costs, he said, the building could have been finished.

Mr. Sheehan was referring to the Borough's 1968 zoning ordinance, the municipality's first since 1951. A section of that ordinance cancelled all building permits as of the publication date of the ordinance. Mr. Sheehan decided to challenge that section, and began digging for his new building.

Under the new law, "substantial construction" had to be under way if the building permit were to remain valid. Thomas Cawley, who was Borough engineer at the time, ruled that Mr. Sheehan's building had not progressed far enough to meet the definition of "substantial con-

Voters Will Be Asked to Back Remodelling of High School - Referendum on $4.6 Million Bond Issue Is Set for December

A $4,660,000 package for remodeling Princeton High School will go to the voters in a December referendum.

Citizen members of the Bond Referendum Advisory Committee (BRAC) held their final meeting Monday night, and will present their detailed report to the school board next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Community Park School.

The public is invited to attend, and to comment.

Highlights of the BRAC proposals:

- Convert the existing two-story girls' gym and the present library into an adequate library.
- Upgrade present classrooms.
- Convert gym lockers into guidance office and classroom space.
- Build a new gym with locker space underneath.

Richard Cobb, BRAC chairman, told a press conference Tuesday that no item was included in the report unless 80 percent of the committee agreed on it. "Even 79 percent wasn't enough," he said, adding that the 20 percent minority was a different set of people each time, and that no minority report is expected.

Priorities Listed. "First of all, there are maintenance items that MUST be done," Mr. Cobb said. "After that, there was no question but that the library has first priority."

It is one-half the standard recommended size for a school the size of PHS, he said. Students must sit on the floor to study because there is no room, and staff have had to "throw students out" because of over-crowding.

"This distressed people on committee a great deal, and remodeling the library is the cornerstone of the committee's desires."

A second floor constructed in the present gym would connect with the present library, he pointed out, and both floors of the gym would be used for library space with an internal stair.

A new gym would be built, end to end with the present boys' gym but not opening into it. It would be constructed where the portable classrooms once were, and locker space - with direct access to playing fields - would be underneath. The gym is the only new facility to be added onto the building.

"This is a least-cost solution for both the library and gym," observed Superintendent Paul Houston.

Other Essentials. After maintenance and the library, Mr. Cobb listed expanded "resource centers" as important elements in a remodeled school.

Three such centers - math, science, languages and computer - exist now. BRAC advises expanding them to eight or nine. These are departmental centers with teachers on duty to help, specialized materials, space for students to work on projects.

Classrooms would be remodeled for flexibility; for example, the over-large home ec area would be "re-constituted;" labs might be divided so that classes and labs could be held simultaneously.

PHS today is used intensively, Mr. Cobb said. "We have 96 to 97 percent use of instructional space. The question is how to modify space so it can be used appropriately."

"Right now, we have French in the home ec area," Mr. Houston commented, "that's a little more flexible than we'd like."

Also, some science classes are now being held in rooms without laboratories, Mr. Cobb added.

No Frills. In a prepared statement, Mr. Cobb and BRAC said that the committee, assessing the need for each item wanted a package that would meet current and future educational needs, without anything like a "frill."

The $4,600,000 package includes architects' fees, an inflation factor, contingencies, and so on, not solely construction costs.

BRAC's report to the board presents figures showing that passage of the bond issue would increase the Borough's total tax rate by about two and one-half percent and the Township's by two and one-quarter.

A house in either municipality with a true value of $50,000 would pay $33 more in annual taxes during the first five years of the proposed 25-year bond issue, and less in succeeding years. (A house with $50,000 true value, is now assessed in the Borough at $27,000 and in the Township at $39,000). BRAC is assuming five percent interest on the bonds.

Old Issue to be Retired. Incidentally, Mr. Cobb told reporters that the bond issue of the mid-1950s that paid for the addition to the high school will be retired at about the time the school board might go to the bond market with this issue.

BRAC will go out of business after its report, Mr. Cobb said. Members will not be involved in "selling" their proposals to the community. He did say, however, that over the two months the group met, members would report on conversations with residents of the community, sounding out their views on remodeling the school.

BRAC members were Baruch Boxer, Wendell Breithaupt, Custis Clark, Pat Cleaves, Charles Cornforth, Barbara Cohen, Edward Cohen, Roger Dinella, Robert Ellis, Carol P. Herring, Henry Horowitz, Edward Kopp, Rita Ludlum, Paul Lysaker, Michael S. Mahoney, Janet Mitchell, Nancy Myers, Niels H. Nielsen, A. Terry Price, Winthrop Pike, Bill Sapoch, J. Alfred Seitz, Libby Shanefield, Chester R. Stroup, Patricia Varvel and Nick Wilson. Non-voting administration members were PHS principal George Petrillo, Facilities Director William Karch and Dr. Houston.

Another building is in the school board's agenda: the board planned to vote this Tuesday on leasing Stony Brook to the Princeton Child Development Institute for $7,500 a year. About $1,400 would be spent by the board to bring the building up to state standards.

clusion, it became apparent that Committee was not going to let them die on the vine.

Bitterness was expressed toward the Borough, which relinquished its half-and-half position on allocating sewer gallonage, but has been allocated gallonage it does not immediately need. "A dog in the manger!" one speaker snapped.

"Give the University whatever they want," was another bitter audience comment. Princeton University has been allocated 27,000 gallons under the relaxed moratorium restrictions; originally, it said it needed 17,000.

Committee's final decision gives top priority to homes

Wine Talk by Archie Browne

DO YOU KNOW WHICH FOODS WINE DOES NOT GO WITH?

Wine, be it red, white, or rose goes well with most foods. However, there are some foods and condiments with which any wine tastes terrible. A list of these foods is as follows: first and foremost is vinegar. Vinegar is wine's worst enemy (that is why in Europe, the salad is always served last). Then come pickles, smoked herring, citrus fruits, candied yams, peanut butter, horseradish, Worcestershire sauce, Tabasco sauce, mustard, anchovies, bananas and baked beans. Mexican food does not go well with any type of wine, instead, a glass of beer is just right and will enhance your enjoyment of Mexican dishes.

Sheehan Building

struction" and Mr. Sheehan went to court. He won favorable decisions in both Superior Court and the appeals court.

The Borough's intent, under the 1968 ordinance, was to preserve the light business-residential character of the Markham Road area, and keep out big office buildings. Two other developers in the area at the time did not contest the building-permit clause.

In the years since that time, Mr. Sheehan has had skirmishes with the Borough engineering department over such things as construction fences, sidewalks and drainage. He once proposed to add four more floors and a bar.

Two years ago, he asked permission to expand retail space on the ground floor and add two stories on the top. He was given permission for the former, but denied the latter. About the same time, his firm, the Dundas Corporation, bought two properties adjoining the building, and one nearby.

AND NOW.....? It's become a Princeton landmark, the "Sheehan Building" on the corner of Nassau and Markham. Denied permission to put two more stories on top, Timothy J. Sheehan said this week that he doesn't know what the fate of his building will be. The darker vertical panels are brilliant yellow plywood, installed by the owner after neighbors complained that the open, unfinished building was a safety hazard.

Too Much Is Too Much. The current request for approval to add two stories was turned down chiefly because the Zoning Board felt that a five-story building was simply too tall for the neighborhood. Also, Mr. Sheehan would not be able to provide enough parking for his apartment tenants.

Somewhere around midnight Friday, the board decided to ask Mr. Sheehan for more data on the economic hardship he would suffer if the board turned him down, and he agreed to provide such information.

But board members soon changed their minds. No further information, they decided, could enable Mr. Sheehan to satisfy New Jersey law that an applicant must show hardship.

Parking is the thing that worried neighbors who sat through the hearing -- as well as those who left around midnight. Mr. Sheehan needed a waiver for the 36 spaces he could not provide. His solution was to require people living in the 24 apartments to move their cars each morning so that the still-warm space would be available for office tenants coming to work.

"Where are they going to park when they move their cars?" neighbors wanted to know.

Solutions Discussed. Well, Mr. Baggett replied, presumably they would be working people driving off to jobs. If they didn't have jobs, they could park in the Borough garage lot next to the Harrison Street firehouse, or in the First National Bank lot across Nassau.

No, Mr. Sheehan told the board, he had not conferred with the bank. Martin G. Miller, assistant Borough engineer, said Borough employees and firemen park in the Borough garage lot.

"If they don't drive to work, I don't know where they'll park," Mr. Sheehan remarked. Mr. Baggett suggested that apartment tenants might rent spaces in the area.

Construction of the present building and finances were two other areas of questioning.

When board member Alan Chimacoff, who is an architect, asked Mr. Sheehan whether the present building could support two more floors, Mr. Sheehan replied that it could probably take a total of six.

"No one designs a three-story building strong enough to support six stories," Mr. Chimacoff replied.

The pressure of time, Mr. Sheehan explained, made it impossible to make test borings of the site, so the architect designed the structure to be as strong as possible: "It's on solid rock," he declared.

Finances Debated. He told Mr. Chimacoff, in response to a question, that rentals for the apartments would be about $350 a month for the two-bedroom units, and that they would be built at a cost of $38 per square foot.

"Economically, it is really this or nothing?" asked neighbor Robert Powell. "Do you have to recover all of your investment in the building so far -- $800,000, plus this as well?"

Mr. Sheehan told him that his bankers and creditors had already been made "substantially whole," and he repeated, "I can think of no practical alternative to this proposal."

Mr. Miller reported receipt of a petition, signed by 26 people, asking that the building be completed without additional floors. He told the Zoning Board he had not received any petitions in support of Mr. Sheehan's plans.

Other neighbors have said in the past that they like the uncompleted building just the way it is -- especially now that it is boarded up. So long as it's vacant, they say, it doesn't produce traffic.

RENT OLD SEWER PLANT?

Company Makes Offer. For an annual rental of somewhere between $7,000 and $12,000, Systems Technology, Inc., an Ohio-based firm, would like to lease the old Princeton sewage treatment plant on River Road that will go out of business when the new plant starts up November 1.

Representatives of Systech, as it calls itself, made their case last Wednesday night before a joint meeting of Borough Council and Township Committee, plus Adele Mitchell of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association; George Olexa, Borough engineer and William Starr, the Township's representative on the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority.

Systech takes industrial wastes and pre-treats them for disposal. It would spend $50,000 to $250,000 to convert the old plant, then truck in some 25 loads a day, amounting to a maximum of 15,000 to 20,000 gallons per day -- to start.

Trucks would be laden with steel, metal, automotive materials and what Systech called "routine industrial chemicals." Systech does not handle petro-chemicals. Whatever could be recovered would be taken back to the customer, the rest would be turned over to the new sewage treatment plant, paying the Authority $30,000 to $40,000 a year. Material would go directly into the plant, and not through Princeton's collection system.

Before pre-treatment, some materials would be stored in above-ground containers "no more hazardous than a service station," a Systech spokesman said.

Liquid sent to the new plant would comply with Authority standards; solids would go to whatever disposal site is designated, Systech said.

Municipal officials said they didn't think the yearly rental was much, but they agreed that the Sewer Operating Committee will explore the request and make its thoughts known by October 5.

Kingston Road - Locust Lane area were using high pressure tactics in selling magazines. He arrested John Gibbons, 21, and Marlena Green, 19, both of East Orange, when they were unable to produce a permit.

They were later released in $25 bail and ordered to appear in court October 20. Chief Frederick Porter reported that the permits of five other solicitors were revoked by the police for using undue sales pressure.

All were soliciting for Opportunities Services Corp. located in Michigan City, Ind.

In the Borough, two more were arrested for soliciting magazine sales for the same firm without first obtaining a Borough permit. Arrested in the Riverside area and given a complaint summons were Sandra D. Pitt, 20, of Los Angeles, and Barbara Parks, 20, of Lakeview, N.Y.

Both had been given previous warnings, according to Chief Michael Carnevale.

More 'Hard Sell.' In another incident involving an overzealous solicitor, Borough police report that a Princeton area resident and his wife were approached Saturday afternoon on Nassau Street near Tulane by a man soliciting for the Human Family Foundation.

The solicitor allegedly ignored a statement from the man that he did not want to be bothered and continued to press for a solicitation. At the same time, the man summoned Sgt. Thomas Michaud who was passing by. After the police officer had demonstrated the proper solicitation approach and its limits and had departed, the solicitor then followed the man into a restaurant and allegedly threatened him for calling the police.

The victim later charged Terrell S. Jackson, 21, of Camden with obstructing and interfering and threatening him. Police also revoked his permit.

After a stretch of more than 10 days which produced little sunshine and lots of steady drizzle, blue skies returned on Tuesday. The Man had the courage to predict that Wednesday, Thursday and Friday would all be free of rain, but then said that precipitation Saturday was a good possibility.

ternoon, causing a fire in an upstairs front bedroom. A general alarm was requested by Sgt. Jack Petrone at one minute past 3.

Mr. Shrader told police that he and his wife were downstairs when they heard a loud noise. He had heard louder noises before, he said, and didn't think much of it. After a few minutes, however, they began to smell smoke.

He ran up to the bedroom and noticed a fire and tried to extinguish it with a hose, while waiting for firemen to arrive. According to Ptl. Jerry Offredo, one of the first on the scene, the bolt hit the top part of the window. A section of wall was charred and some boxes stored in the room against the wall were also burned.

Aerosol Can Explodes. An aerosol can thrown into an incinerator at the university-owned Lawrence Apartments on West Drive exploded late Friday afternoon.

The explosion blew off the door of the incinerator causing smoke to back up into the lobby. Firemen responded to a call by Ptl. Peter Savalli, who investigated.

STOLEN BIKE SIGHTED

By Owner. Walking on Nassau Street Saturday, a Princeton resident noticed a 10-speed bicycle chained to a rack that had been stolen from him a year ago.

After he was able to provide proper identification of the manufacturer's serial number to police, they released the bike—and waited. Soon the "owner" reported his bicycle had been stolen. The resultant police investigation revealed that the "owner" had purchased the bicycle from someone else and the third party, interviewed by police, had also bought the bike from someone else.

"We've already four persons removed," commented Chief Michael Carnevale, who said the police investigation is continuing.

Of United Fund Drive. With the official kick-off of the 1977 United Fund-Red Cross campaign of the Princeton Area scheduled for October 1, James Stewart, general campaign chairman, has announced the minimum goal of $769,887. The total was arrived at as a result of careful evaluation of each agency's requirements by the voluntary budget committee chaired by Richard L. Gilbert and represents the minimum dollars needed in 1978 to continue the vital services rendered by 20 beneficiaries to the more than 35,000 individuals served each year in 13 communities.

Last year's campaign, the first successful drive since 1969, realized the total of $713,000 and the new goal reflects an 8 percent increase needed over that sum. Mr. Stewart feels confident that his team can raise this challenge figure to help support health, welfare and recreational services in Cranbury, East Windsor, Griggstown, Hightstown, Kingston, Montgomery Township, Plainsboro, Princeton, Rocky Hill, West Windsor, and adjacent areas of Hopewell, Lawrence and South Brunswick Townships.

Among the agencies receiving allocations from the Fund are the American Red Cross, the YMCA, both in Hightstown and Princeton, the YWCA, the Family Service Agency, Better Beginnings Child Development Center, The Princeton Nursery School, The Girl and Boy Scouts and 10 others. A new agency was taken into the Fund this year, that of the Catholic Welfare Bureau, with offices in Hightstown. This service concerns itself mainly with child abuse cases, which are becoming more and more prevalent in today's society.

Serving on the campaign team as division chairmen are Robert Moulthrop, public relations; George A. Vaughn, research and industry; Prof. J. Merrill Knapp and David S. Thompson, University; Mrs. John F. Kelsey III and William E. Reaser, personal gifts; Richard G. Poole, advance gifts; Harry Heher Jr. and Graham Rohrer, professional offices.

Also Paul R. Chesebro, Paul D. Houston and Douglas McClure, education; Richard L. Wines, financial institutions; Everett B. Garretson, mercantile; Malcolm Roszel and Albert Rauch, building trades, and Arthur P. Morgan, government.

TELEVISION TAKEN

From Witherspoon Apartment. A color television set, valued between $4 - $500, was reported stolen Monday from a Witherspoon Street apartment. Police said there was no forced entry.

A 10-speed bicycle, chained to a rack at Princeton High School, was stolen between 1 and 3 Friday afternoon, and a wallet containing $40 was taken from a dresser drawer in a room in 1937 Hall on the university campus. Police said the thief entered an unlocked ground-level window.

Early in the week, a shoplifter took a $78 navy blue velvet blazer from the Lady Bug on Nassau Street. The suspect was described as about 23, 5-5, wearing a beige raincoat and orange print scarf.

Restaurant Entered. The Rusty Scupper Restaurant, 378 Alexander Street, was discovered entered Thursday morning by Ptl. Harry Morton who investigated a burglar alarm sounding at 6:50.

He found that a 3-foot rear window had been knocked out by five stones that were found inside and there were pry marks on a glass sliding door. Once inside, the intruder went up the steps to a second floor landing where he broke into a cigarette vending machine, taking an undetermined amount of money.

He then returned to the first floor, police said, and pried open an office door, causing the alarm to sound.

INVESTIGATION ENDS

In Police Brutality Charge. Borough Chief Michael Carnevale reported Tuesday that "we have completed our own investigation" of charges by a Princeton man accusing Ptl. David Alston with brutality.

The police findings have been presented to the Public Safety Committee for action, Chief Carnevale said.

Ptl. Alston's accuser, Geoffrey Graham, 25, has charged him with assault and battery, following an incident early last week on Prospect Avenue. Ptl. Alston has denied the charge.

In a statement to Capt. Theodore Lewis, Mr. Graham said that he was walking on Prospect when a patrol car drove by. It stopped and Ptl. Alston got out, approached him, the charge continues and asked for identification.

Ptl. Alston claims that he stopped his car after Mr. Graham "gave me the finger," on obscene gesture. His request for identification was ignored.

Mr. Graham stated that the officer had provoked him into running; Ptl. Alston replied that when Mr. Graham fled, he gave chase, thinking he may have been a suspect in a crime.

"He grabbed me, ripped my jacket and put a headlock on me," continued Mr. Graham, who added he offered no resistance. He has sought witnesses to the incident through a classified advertisement in newspapers. He has proceeded with his police brutality charge on the advice of the Princeton Rights Commission and the American Civil Liberties Union.

Ptl. Alston said that he later recognized Mr. Graham as one to whom he had once given a motor vehicle summons.

TO DEVELOP 900 ACRES

Plans Still Tentative. Proposals of Nassau Capital Associates to develop its 90-acre plot at the corner of Stuart and Cherry Hill roads will be presented to public and Planning Board at the board's October meeting next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall.

The developers plan a standard, two-acre subdivision, and have informed the Planning Board that their plans are still tentative.

The board will also hear an informal presentation by Princeton Community Housing of its plans to build housing for the elderly on Palmer Square, and will discuss with Princeton Research Lands and Commodities Corporation their proposals to develop acreage on Mt. Lucas Road.

TO BENEFIT BEARSE

Auction Planned. A Services Auction and Party to benefit the campaign of Peter J. Bearse, Democratic candidate for the State Senate from the 14th district, will be held Sunday, October 9, at the home of Luis Nanni, 32 Bertrand Drive.

A committee is canvassing the community for services to be auctioned off. So far, the committee has lined up tango lessons, Yiddish lessons, bridge instruction and a concert for 20 persons in the home of a professional harp-sichordist. Interested donors are asked to call Emma Forehand, 921-6146.

Committee members planning the event are Luis Nanni, Gertrude Dubrovsky, Kera Herzog, Emma Forehand, Joanna Gibson, Elly Stein and Renee Levine.

all right—an accessory use, to be technical about it—to serve tea and sandwiches in an art gallery.

The Borough Zoning Board, which could have used some tea itself in its six-and-one-half-hour session last Friday night (see Cover story), granted the necessary parking relief to Gallery 100. The gallery will have three tables seating four each on its second floor.

Albert Hinds voted "no" in the 4-1 decision.

POLITICS

Democrats. A walking tour of New York's SoHo district on Friday, October 7, will benefit the van den Blink-Medvin Democratic campaign in the Borough.

Juan Borenholtz, a former resident of Princeton and director of Rent-A-Mentor Art Services -- an enterprise which conducts private tours of galleries -- is donating her services, and will lead the tour.

Transportation will leave Princeton at 9 a.m., returning at 4. The $10 cost is deductible as a campaign contribution. Lunch will be Dutch treat in a SoHo restaurant.

More details are available from Hanno Fox, 924-2990, or Mrs. van den Blink, 924-1648.

Meanwhile in the Township, Democratic candidates Kate Litvack and David Klein have declared that their first priority for Township Committee is finding new ways to keep the lid on property taxes. "I would like to study the possibility of broadening the tax base by attracting desirable rateables such as research and commercial facilities, which make major contributions to municipal income," Mr. Klein said.

Mrs. Litvack pointed to the success of communities like Lawrence and Hopewell in attracting campus-like research centers, such as Western Electric, Educational Testing Service and Mobil.

"When well-planned, such facilities can be environmentally desirable," she said, "but as things now stand, Princeton gets the traffic and provides the municipal services, while neighboring communities get the tax relief."

Charm of Old Steadman House on Mercer Street Retained as It Is Converted into 5 Apartments

The charm of nooks and irregularities, of narrow curving passageways and diamond-paned windows has been preserved and enhanced in the remodeling of the house at Mercer and Library by architect William Short.

Mr. Short's client is Princeton Theological Seminary, which bought the run-down 19th-century building and, under Mr. Short's hand, has turned it into five luxury apartments.

A Steadman House. The other well-known occupant was John F. Hageman, who is highly regarded as a historian of the Princeton community. But the original architect-builder of the house was equally renowned.

He is Charles Steadman who designed and built the house in 1848, according to research by Constance Greiff. Mrs. Greiff found an article in The Princeton Whig - the local paper of that day referring to the house as "A New Villa," built for "John F. Hageman, Esq."

reached by a curving passage only wide enough for one. The bathroom of the apartment above, has the same windows.

Apartments on the second and third floors have the characteristic attic-and-eaves features, with lower ceilings, a window-seat, small attic storage spaces that could - since one has a window - serve as a play space for a visiting grandchild.

Tenants, incidentally, are not, so far, people with children. The Seminary has said "No," but Mr. Short doesn't think it's a place where young parents would want to live with children.

Mrs. Greiff's research shows, however, that the house built by Steadman is preserved only in parts of the foundations. By 1874, it had been substantially remodeled, and eventually was transformed into what architecture historians call "Shingle Style."

Scallop design shingles on the front of the house were reproduced in this, the newest remodeling, by William West of Lewis Bowers and Sons, who cut the new scalloped shingles at his home at night.

Another dramatic feature of the house is a slate roof, visible from the upper rooms, with elongated, oval slates instead of the more traditional rectangular ones.

Like a Separate House. Apartment Number Three, Mr. Short points out, is almost like a separate town house. Its entrance is at the rear, facing north, and it has both basement and attic.

The fireplace in this apartment is a new one, Mr. Short acknowledges, but it was made of late 19th-century bricks taken from a demolished chimney.

This apartment has perhaps the most romantic feature of any of the five units. It is a minute room, the shape of a truncated triangle, only a scant eight feet in its longest dimension, lit by a pair of tall, ten-inch-wide windows with diamond-shaped panes. It is

The distinction of a separate address - Number Two Library Place - belongs to the second apartment. Its front door leads in from a terrace, enclosed by a low brick wall and illumined by a bubble-glass globe light.

The house has been the home of at least two distinguished Princeton residents, and this particular part of the house is where Albert Einstein lived from 1933 to 1936.

Hotline for Voters

As deadlines approach for voter registration and absentee ballots for the November general election, the Princeton area League of Women Voters will operate a non-partisan information hotline on these subjects.

Area residents may call 921-8106 to receive details on when and how to register, who needs an absentee ballot and how to vote with one.

The deadline for registration is October 11. However, October 10 is a legal holiday and October 8 and 9 are a weekend, so those wishing to register should not wait until the deadline, suggests Sallie Jessor, head of voters' service for the League.

The usual deadline for absentee deadline applications is seven days before the election, with new provisions which allow for past-the-deadline emergencies. Information on these provisions are available by calling 921-8106.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

Man Guilty on Four Counts. Kim Craig, 24, 1 Margerum Court, appeared in a special session of Township Court Monday to answer four separate charges of assault and battery.

On one, accusing him of assaulting a Township police officer, acting Judge Robert P. Casey fined Craig $125 and placed him on a year's probation. On two others assault charges, lodged by Princeton University proctors, Craig received a two-month suspended sentence for each. For the charge, stemming from a melee at the Princeton Community Development housing, Craig was sentenced to 30 days in the Mercer County Workhouse.

Five Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Judge Philip Carchman in Borough court for speeding.

David Savage, Drakes Corner Road, paid $32; Walter Gips, 92 Brookstone Drive, and Diane Billings, 212 N. Main Street, Pennington, each paid $16; Barry D. Crites, 2710 Hunters Glen, Plainsboro, paid $17 and William Gutbrodt, 50 Wilton Street, paid $15.

Annebel Westby, 1 Courtney Drive, Princeton Junction, was fined $20 for operating an unsafe vehicle, and James H. Novobilsky of Hopewell was fined $15 for riding on parts of a vehicle not intended for passengers.

CADILLAC STOLEN

Returned Damaged. A 1976 silver Cadillac, valued at $11,570, was stolen between 6:45 and 7 Friday morning from in front of the home of its owner, Timothy J. Sheehan, 216 Russell Road.

Inside, Mr. Sheehan told police, was his wallet containing $70 in Canadian money, credit cards and a blank check on the 1st National State Bank.

The car was recovered two days later in Philadelphia in possession of a 17-year old juvenile. Police said one entire side had been damaged.

Parked Car Looted. An unlocked car parked in the John Witherspoon School lot was looted early last week, according to its owner, Eileen Shepard of Mercerville. She told police she lost a pair of sunglasses and a flashlight.

Also taken were items belonging to three other persons: a wallet containing $20, an Instamatic camera and a pair of sneakers. Total value of the articles is $62.

A steel belted tire, valued at $75, was taken from inside a station wagon, parked last week in the Jewish Center lot on Nassau Street. The owner of the unlocked car is a Lawrenceville resident, police said.

VICTIM ALSO CHARGED

In Knifing. Angel L. Galarza, 28, 78 Clay Street, hospitalized with a collapsed lung last week after he was allegedly stabbed by Lester Bethea, 22, of 40 Leigh Avenue, during a street argument, has himself been charged.

Taken to police headquarters after his release from the hospital Monday morning, Galarza was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. He was later released in $250 bail, pending his appearance in court October 19.

His arrest was the result of a police investigation by Det. Charles Harris and from statements taken from witnesses. Police report that Galarza had a two-pronged barbecue fork in his possession at the time of the fight.

Bethea was charged with atrocious assault and battery and resisting arrest.

STUDENT CHARGED

With Assault. Robert T. Coco, 18, of New Brunswick, a student at Rutgers University, has been charged with the assault and battery of a Township patrolman.

following the Princeton-Rutgers football game Saturday in Palmer Stadium. He has been released in $1,000 bail, pending his appearance in Township court.

After the game, which Rutgers won, 10-6, Rutgers' students spilled onto the field and dismantled the goalposts at either end. During a shoving and pushing melee, Ptl. David Cromwell was knocked to the ground, suffering bruised ribs. As Ptl. Potts went to his aid, Coco allegedly struck him with his fists.

Police said that Coco had been ordered to leave the Stadium earlier, but had returned.

Therapist Finds Children React to Treatment More Readily If It Is Given in Home-Setting

Troubled and unhappy, a child with problem churning inside will respond to therapy quicker and more easily if the therapist is right there in the child's familiar surroundings - home.

That is the thesis of a new approach, Child and Family Home Counseling, developed by Priscilla Maren and now offered by her to families in which a child between the ages of 2 and 12 has become a "problem" because of a physical or emotional handicap.

Mrs. Maren holds the New York State Psychiatric Institute certificate for completion of internship in paraverbal therapy for the treatment of communication disorders, and New Jersey's Department of Education certificate for completing Project ACTIVE's training course in individualized physical education for handicapped children.

Besides, she's worked and played with all kinds of kids for years.

Young men and women now in their early 20s remember Priscilla Maren and her guitar from classes at the YWCA, toddler groups at the Cor-telyou Farm School and at the Princeton Nursery School on Leigh Avenue.

Setting Is Vital. "It's extremely important to include the family in a home setting," she says, in the manner of a quiet, serene firmness which characterizes her.

"Perhaps there has been a diagnosis of childhood autism, schizophrenia, or perhaps there are phobias, a child who is withdrawn or hyperactive. Or maybe you simply have a hater who is hard to manage. In any case, so much of the family energy is given over to the problem, that too little is left for the rest of family life."

Mrs. Maren explains that she uses "non-verbal means to organize interaction between the therapist and the child." Rhythm, singing, body movement, painting while a beat is beating, making up songs, showing a child how to use the timbre of the voice or instrument to express emotions.

"Asking a child to say the word 'apple' as though the child were very angry, for example, isn't as frightening as talking about the problems that are so scary to the child.

"If a kid looks lonely, I'll sing with my guitar and give him a drum to beat, singing about a boy who wanted someone to play with. The boy will take what he needs from the song and might make up his own to go along. This is getting the boy to talk about himself, freeing him through 'paralinguistic' means. If he's never learned to speak, you can help him by giving him musical instruments - maybe it's a big drum that dominates a little drum and sends the little drum into hiding...."

Reaching the Child. Treatment in this vein eases the hyperactive and disor-dered child, Mrs. Maren has found, especially the child who builds a protective barricade of words, talking constantly and asking incessant questions.

"This can cut through, and be calming." When a parent is present in the home, it's enjoyable for the parent to join in the music, too.

Is there a power struggle between mother and child?

"A kid tears the sheets every night in bed, mother hears this, takes away the sheets and gives the child something. Well, the child is manipulating the mother.

"You try to change the situation entirely, the whole bed ritual, making it a positive time with, let's say, a tea-party in the child's room. Whenever the child doesn't rip, there will be a reward.

"The child may tear the sheets three or four more times, but when special attention has been given WITHOUT THE CHILD'S ASKING FOR IT, the child won't need to manipulate and will 'forget' to rip the sheets. The reward? Well, it might be a pink bulb in the night-light, or a scented handkerchief on the pillow while the child is going to sleep, or a piece of fruit."

Opening Communication. Therapy like this, Mrs. Maren believes, is a way of opening communication between mother and child.

"It means the mother is saying, 'I care about you, but I am the boss and I want to do with you, this thing that I like.'"

Within a family, reversing-roles can be helpful, Mrs. Maren has found. Perhaps mother takes the son shop-

Rain May Have Cancelled Your Sunday Plans, But More Than 600 Found It Perfect for Race

MARATHON WINNER: Michael Butynes, a 23-year old school teacher, is about to win the first 13.1 Princeton Half-Marathon held Sunday. His time of one hour, nine minutes and 55 seconds was three seconds better than that of Eamon Downey, former Princeton University runner. In all, 655 participated in the event.

It's official. Sunday's first Princeton 13.1 Mile Half-Marathon and 3 Mile Run-for-Fun were a success. Even the weather – the bane of everyone else – cooperated as the runners enjoyed the cooling effect of the damp and drizzly day.

Michael Butynes of Somerdale, running for the Penn A.C., won the Half-Marathon in 1:09:55. He was hard pressed by Eamon Downey of the Shore A.C., a former runner for Princeton University, and now cross-country coach at PDS, who finished a scant three seconds behind in 1:09:58. It was Downey who conceived staging the event here.

Ritchie Geisel of the Old Nassau Harriers, like Downey, a former Princeton University runner, finished seventh among the 655 who participated in the event. His time was 1:12:26. Time for the 20th finisher, Jeffrey Neis was 1:17:12.

In addition, 256 runners opted for the less taxing Run-for-Fun. That event was captured by 19-year old Michael Geraltowski of Sayreville in 17:26. Nearly 10 percent of those participating were women. Race officials report receiving more than 1,000 entries.

$50 For Last Place. One of the women, Constance Bryson of East Windsor received a $50 gift certificate from Brophy's Shoes for coming in last in the Half-Marathon. Her time: three hours, ten seconds. With the exception of one runner who was injured at the start of the race, all the marathon entrants finished. In addition there were 20 walkers who followed the marathon course which led to the Great Road to Bedens Brook to Province Line to Cherry Valley and back into town.

Borough Councilman Martin Lombardo fired the gun that unleashed the mass of runners at the Lilac Lane-Hodge Road starting point. It ended at Palmer Square.

Princeton merchants contributed prizes to the top finishers – the top prize a handmade sweater from Landau's. Free T-shirts were given to the first 500 entrants and 300 more were sold for $2.

Mr. Butynes received, in addition to his sweater, a weekend for two including meals from the Nassau Inn. The Inn also supplied runners with orange slices and lemonade.

The consensus after the race was that the course, conditions and times were all excellent. The entire event left behind, "good vibrations" in the way one organizer put it.

As a consequence, officials are planning a bigger and better marathon for next year. The director for this first marathon was Peter Clark, 7 Armour Road, who ran a very efficient Half-Marathon himself.

MARATHON VARIETY: in addition to numbers there was variety among the Princeton marathon entrants. As this picture shows, young and old, men and women all took part in the 13.1 mile run.

coming out of closets. Well, you make a puppet boogeyman, or you pretend the child is the boogeyman and the therapist is the child. A child welcomes a parent who can help the child control."

With autistic children, in Mrs. Maren's experience, there is often bizarre behavior, in which a child will stare abnormally at an apple, for example.

"I will say, 'If you feel that way, then shut the door of the bathroom and stare at the apple in there, but it's not what we do around people.' And you insist on it. Parents are often afraid to be strict if a child has a serious problem, but they need support in being firm, and the kids respond well."

At first, Mrs. Maren meets alone with the parents. But treatment begins in the home itself with the children, probably in the evenings and week-ends when the father is home.

Mrs. Maren works with physicians caring for the child and likes to obtain from the doctor a medical form, detailing petitmal seizures, allergies, and so on.

Her plan calls for two 90-minute sessions a week, at the start, scheduled so that both parents can be in the home for at least one session. Mrs. Maren can be reached at 466-2039.

COURSES ANNOUNCED

By Woman's Place. The fall program sponsored by The Woman's Place, 14½ Witherspoon Street, will include a creativity workshop, a discussion of the female body and a course in street defense.

Ellen Bank, an art therapist, will coordinate the creativity workshop which will make use of art, music, movement, fantasy journey and shared experiences. Two five week sessions are offered, on Tuesday evenings from 8 to 10 beginning October 11, or Thursday morning from 9:30 to 11:30 beginning October 13. The fee is $30 for either and registration is required, although members need not have previous art experience.

A discussion related to the "self-help" movement concerning women taking control of their bodies and consequently themselves, will be held Wednesday, October 12 at 8. Breast examinations will be demonstrated and personal problems and experiences discussed. Myra Yinger and Mary B. White, R.N. will lead the discussion for women only.

The six week program in self-defense is offered in conjunction with the Princeton University Women's Center and will be held Tuesday evenings from 7 to 8 in room 203, Green Hall annex on the University campus. Group leaders are Andy DePristo, a first degree black belt, and Judy DePristo, a first degree brown belt. Limited to 25 female University of community members, the course will cost

EASTER IN SEPTEMBER? Well, here's proof that one of nature's prettiest ornaments thinks it's possible. Two years ago, Mrs. Frank Mazzella, 270 North Harrison Street, put the plant she had gotten in her garden and now it's in full bloom. TOWN TOPICS' resident Green Thumb agrees: "It's not unprecedented, but it certainly is uncommon."

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

At NJNPI. Orientation for new and in-service volunteers at the New Jersey Neuropsychiatric Institute in Skillman will be held on Tuesday, October 11, at 9:30 a.m. in the Gerry Classroom at the Institute. Speakers from several areas will describe their programs, luncheon will be served, and a tour of the Institute will be given.

Many interesting volunteer opportunities are available in all areas, including speech, recreational, occupational and music therapies, psychology, psychiatry, social services and library services. Teacher's aides to work with autistic children are also needed. Hours are flexible, and the schedule is worked out to suit each volunteer.

Call Mrs. Ruth Meadow, 466-0400, or write to volunteer services, New Jersey Neuropsychiatric Institute, P.O. Box 1000, for additional information.

WRITERS TO TALK

At Public Library. Writers are scheduled to talk about books again at the Princeton Public Library. Ralph Schoenstein, author of "Yes, My Darling Daughters," will lead off the series on October 6 at 8 p.m. speaking on "The Unfunny Business of Writing Humor."

Mr. Schoenstein, who lives on Cherry Hill Road, started his career as a writer for television. He went on to write both sports news and humor for a number of newspapers and magazines as well as several humorous books.

The series will continue on November 3 with "A conversation with John McPhee," during which Mr. McPhee discusses questions from the audience. Questions may be sent to the library in advance on a postcard. On December 1 Vincent Buranelli will talk on Dr. Mesmer and his discovery and use of the trance.

IT'S NEW To Us

ADD WARMTH AND SAVE. With Wood-burning Stove. "You can save money, add charm and comfort to your home with a wood-burning stove" says Douglas Forer, owner of The Charred Oak Stoverly in Hopewell. "A cord of wood costing $45 - $55 is equal to 154 gallons fuel for $80, a minimum saving of $25, and many times, wood can be obtained free."

The most efficient wood-burning stove you can buy, Mr. Forer believes, is the Tempwood II, the only true down-draft stove on the market today. The fire burns in reverse, from the top down. When loading the stove, logs go in first, kindling goes in next, newspaper on top.

Made of cast iron and rolled steel from a rolled forging process, which eliminates doors, seams, cracks, Tempwood II is virtually air-tight. Combustion is controlled by two small air intakes on the top of the stove under sliding lids. Cool, dense air coming in pushes hot, unburned, volatile gases back into the fire chamber, where gases are re-ignited and burn completely.

This comforting little stove is 28" wide, 28" high and 18" deep. The entire top surface can be used for cooking. Three to five logs 22" x 11" will burn for 14 hours and heat a five or six room house.

WARMING TREND: The use of wood-burning stoves to heat the home. Here, Douglas Forer, owner of "The Charred Oak Stoverly" demonstrates his favorite, American-made "Tempwood II".

Tempwood II sells for $292.

A smaller model, Tempwood V is $239. Manufactured by Mohawk Industries, Inc. in Adams, Mass., it is guaranteed for 15 years.

From Belgium. For people who like the nostalgia of a wood-burning stove and the romantic appeal of an open fire, Mr. Forer recommends "The Effel," a hooded stove made in Belgium. A combination of cast iron and rolled steel, it has a tempered glass door through which the fire may be seen.

When the hood is lifted, the top of the stove can be used for cooking. Or slide the glass door up under the hood and have an open fire. A barbecue grill is included with the stove. Similar in size to the Tempwood, the Effel costs $495.

A charming little French stove called "Le Petite Godin" is cylindrical, made of cast iron and decorated with lacy enameled cast iron in white or colors (green, cedar, blue, etc.). Its space-saving shape is 16" wide, 21" deep, 31 1/4" high. A mica window let's you see the glow of the fire. $277.50.

The "Reginald," made in Ireland, is a small box stove with black porcelain finish for maintenance and appearance. This compact stove has a cast-iron fire-box with baffle plates and will heat one large room or cabin. $229.50.

Franklin stoves, made in the Portland Foundry, Portland, Me., are available in two sizes at $251 and $351. Their doors open to give the effect of a fireplace. Six to eight weeks for delivery.

All stoves are easily connected to an existing chimney or fireplace. Stove pipes and accessories are available at the shop.

Barrels and Boxes hand-crafted by Mr. Forer have many uses. The barrels come in five sizes and sell from $10.50 to $20. Made of spruce, pine or cherry and bound with oak hoops, they are good plant stands, lamp tables, stools, pedestals for tables or storage units.

The pine boxes, copied from the fish packing boxes of Cape Cod, are one standard size 18" x 29" and come with or without a center divider. $7.50 each. Six units ($45.00) will give you a handsome bookcase or a set of shelves.

The Charred Oak Stoverly is located in The Tomato Factory on Hamilton Avenue in Hopewell. Hours are 10-5, Tuesday through Saturday, and by appointment Sunday and evenings.

FASHION IMPRESSIONS

From Robert Varga. A festive crowd came to celebrate the opening of the men's wear section of Robert Varga and to view its clothes by Lasserre and Ralph Lauren for Polo, as well as the latest designer fashions for women.

Watching the models was exciting - 88 models in 60 minutes - a series of impressions of beautiful clothes put together in today's look of fashion.

The Look of Ease is the look of men and women wearing whatever is comfortable, in any combination that reflects their individuality. Men can wear the jacket and vest of one suit with the pants of another or a shirt and tie with a striped sweater vest under a tweed jacket.

It's the "un-suit" look for women, too. Nothing needs to match. A plaid skirt, tweed jacket, lace-trimmed blouse topped with a shawl, or velveteen jacket, ruffled blouse, tweed skirt are not only compatible, but high fashion.

The Layered Look for women is more evident than ever. Two coats were worn one over the other, a quilted coat, then a woolen, or two jackets - a short velvet jacket, then a tweed jacket, worn over a challis dress.

Layered dressing is the current trend for men, too, with mixing of patterns and textures. For example, a striped shirt, corduroy jacket, knitted tie, tweed pants; trench coat over colored shirt and tie, bulky sweater, grey flannel pants; plaid shirt,

TWO WOMEN NAMED
To Posts At Hun. Two Princeton area women have been named to administrative positions at The Hun School.

Britta B. Blum of Princeton has been appointed assistant director of admissions and will also assist in college counseling. Mrs. Blum is a graduate of Smith College and holds a master's degree in guidance and counseling from Rider College. A former member of the public relations staff of the American Museum of Natural History in New York, she comes to Hun from Princeton University where she was assistant to the associate director of the Program in Continuing Education.

Susan A. Mott of Lawrenceville has been named assistant director of development. In her new position, Mrs. Mott will be involved with alumni, parent, and public relations. A graduate of Wellesley College, Mrs. Mott was secretary and special assistant to the Headmaster prior to her appointment. Before coming to Hun, she was recording secretary in the development office of The Lawrenceville School.

WINE! CHEESE!

Politics! A wine and cheese party will be given this Sunday to benefit the campaign of Republican Freeholder candidates Jack Pierson and Scott Reid.

The party will be held at 6 p.m. at the home of Nancy and William Schluter, 205 South Main Street, Pennington. Among the co-ordinators are Christine St. John of Princeton; Martha Bridger of Hopewell, and John Hansbury of Hopewell Township.

Mr. Pierson, a teacher at the School for the Deaf, ran for Freeholder last year. Mr. Reid is a Princeton attorney. If elected, he would be the first Freeholders elected since 1970.

New Children's Museum Will Look Back At What Amused Kids in Days Gone By

It may not be known exactly who chomped the first piece of bubblegum but WHEN is An Historic Fact, and young visitors to the new Children's Museum at Bainbridge House will learn about that (and more) when the Museum opens on Sunday, October 9. Hours: 3-5.

It's going to be a permanent feature of Bainbridge House, with exhibits changed periodically. At first, there will be a collection of old photographs to show what life was like for kids in the Princeton of long ago. What did kids wear? What did they play with? What was school like? How were they—ugh!—punished!

"Please Touch" will be the password, and everything on view can be handled. How about the schoolmaster's coat and the World War I boots to try on? The old pewter tea-set to pour from? The old dog-cart to sit in and the antique rocking-horse to ride?

Wait'll they see the cut-out replicas of boardwalk figures, the ones where you stick your face where the figure's face should be, and get your picture taken! This time, as a child of long-ago.

A special feature of the museum will be the Time Line, a three-dimensional walk through history, from dinosaurs to today (today? a mirror, what else!) Somewhere along here will be the early Olympic games, 1776, the first movie, man-on-the-moon — and the first bubblegum. Dana Press of Provincetown Road has designed and made the Line.

What else? Well, a "whassis?" cart with things to identify, old awards for excellence in Palmer Method Penmanship, and just wait'll Christmas!

The Children's Museum has been put together by Anne Reeves and Constance Escher, with a large board of advisors, the eldest of whom is 14.

icipated gift will increase the School's endowment to a new high of $24,000,000.

Head Master Bruce McClellan announced the gift at Lawrenceville's annual Alumni Leaders Conference, a gathering of class officers, regional directors, and other volunteers who will be responsible for achieving the goal of $425,000 for the 1977-78 Annual Giving Fund. Mr. McClellan commented that the gift was "all the more remarkable since Mr. Dusenbury had no direct ties to Lawrenceville." He was not himself an alumnus, although two brothers — Edgar and William — came to Lawrenceville.

Mr. Dusenbury had, on several occasions in the 1950's and 60's shown his interest in Lawrenceville by donating a total of $77,000 for the modernization of the School's oldest (1814) building, The Hamill House, in recognition of his brothers' association with the School. He so shunned the limelight, however, that he did not inform Lawrenceville of his testamentary arrangements.

Mr. Dusenbury was born in Tidionte, Pennsylvania, on April 21, 1890, the youngest of three sons of William Addison and Helen Truesdale Dusenbury. His father was engaged in the lumber business in Pennsylvania and, after his death, the family moved to Portville, N.Y. in 1892.

Mr. Dusenbury was active in many fields. The oil business, which was second only to lumbering as the basic industry of the area at the time, and dairy farming were his prime interests; but he also served as director of a variety of local firms.

Rebate Publicly Helpful.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The Senior Citizen Outreach Service of Mercer County Community Action Council would like to express its gratitude to you for the excellent publicity you gave to the recent fuel rebate program. We were contacted by over 200 Princeton area families of whom more than half were eligible for the $250 rebate.

We would also like to thank publicly all the community people who helped get the word around so rapidly and especially Nancy DiMeglio and Frank Soda who arranged the Italian translation of the flyer.

We were able to serve most of these people in other ways as well—through the Pharmaceutical Assistance Program, C.E.T.A. employment programs, referrals to other agencies and general information on a variety of subjects.

Bicycle Safety Violated.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
For the sake of all who use our roadways, please print the below letter.

Fellow New Jerseyans:

The following quote is taken from the Motor Vehicles and Traffic Regulations, Title 39 of the Revised Statutes as Amended and Supplemented October 28, 1968.

"39:4-14.1 Rights and Duties of persons on bicycles

Every person riding a bicycle upon a roadway shall be granted all the rights and shall be subject to all of the duties applicable to the driver of a vehicle by Chapter Four of Title 39 of the Revised Statutes and all supplements thereto except as to those provisions which by their nature can have no application.

Regulations applicable to bicycles shall apply whenever a bicycle is operated upon any highway or upon any path set aside for the exclusive use of bicycles subject to those exceptions stated herein.

39:4-14.2 Operating Regulations

Every person operating a bicycle upon a roadway shall ride as near to the right side of the roadway as practicable, exercising due care when passing a standing vehicle or one proceeding in the same direction. Persons riding bicycles upon a roadway shall ride in single file except on paths or parts of roadways set aside for the exclusive use of bicycles.

Wherever a useable path for bicycles has been provided adjacent to a roadway, bicycle riders shall use such path and shall not use the roadway."

As a bicyclist, I have observed innumerable violations of the above regulations, by bicyclists and motorists. Please be aware that these regulations were designed for the safety of bicyclists, so disregard for them is highly dangerous.

The bicycle is a viable means of transportation that is becoming increasingly popular. It is imperative that everyone become aware of the laws pertaining to bicycles.

cable sweater, suede pants, shepherd-check jacket.

Outlook for Fall and Winter. On the whole, men's clothes were classic, clean of line, relaxed, comfortable. Camel hair, tweeds, flannels are still the traditional favorites in suits, slacks, blazers.

Shirts have smaller collars, buttoned down or pinned. Pants were straight legged, sometimes pleated, sometimes not. Jackets were center-vented or side-vented, single-breasted or double-breasted, pockets with flaps most of the time.

Women's clothes were soft, loose, pretty! Daytime dresses were designed in challis, a fabric new again this year, wool jerseys, silk jersey, fine woolsens. One model was glimpsed wearing a challis dress in a small purple print with brown print bordering waist and hemline. There was a brief look at a creamy silk jersey dress with bowed neck worn with the same color mohair coat, ruffled at the wrist with a drawstring.

Evening dresses showed up in georgette, silk, chiffon, satin, lace, velvet, lurex. Seen in a flash was a peasant-style dress with gathers at neckline, mere, camel-hair or wool, designed to be worn over many layers of clothes. Blouses were the most consistently romantic of all the clothes -- sheer fabrics, usually, ruffled, tucked, that sparkled with sequins.

A double-take revealed a dinoer-length dress tiered with finely-pleated color-specked chiffon; a brilliant red silk jersey dress with raglan sleeves, topped with a tartan shawl.

Sportswear. Skirts were gathered, had unpressed pleats, accordion pleats. Cropped jackets had turned-back cuffs or roll-up sleeves, confirmed by a fleeting look at a plaid cutaway jacket with deep pink stripe, a pinkish paisley stock-tie blouse and navy pleated skirt. Sweaters were bulky, cowled or turtle necks, and had a hand-knitted look.

Big, soft coats were roomy and wrappy in mohair, cashmere, camel-hair or wool, designed to be worn over many layers of clothes. Blouses were the most consistently romantic of all the clothes -- sheer fabrics, usually, ruffled, tucked, that sparkled with sequins. A double-take revealed a dinoer-length dress tiered with finely-pleated color-specked chiffon; a brilliant red silk jersey dress with raglan sleeves, topped with a tartan shawl.

Designers of women's clothes included Donald Brooks, Halston, Blassport, Mollie Parnis, Anthony Muto, Oscar de la Renta, Gil Almbez, Geoffrey Beene, Ann Klein, Albert Capraro, Calvin Klein, Albert Nipon. Sizes are 4-12. Prices, generally, in the medium range, for both men's and women's clothes.

For a closer, longer look, visit Robert Varga, U.S. Route 1 and Hopatcong Drive, Lawrenceville. Store hours are Monday and Tuesday 10-6, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, 10-9, Saturday 10-5.

Princeton Regional School HIGHLIGHTS

THE SCHOOLS BELONG TO EVERYONE

Five days a week, from early morning to late afternoon, Princeton Regional Schools are full of learning activity - students, staff, aides and volunteers. But once the daily schedules have been met there are few "for students only" signs in evidence. That is when the entire community gets an opportunity to use the facilities in a breathtakingly diverse range of activity. Some groups are school-based or governmental in purpose so they can just apply for time, space and place. Other organizations may be charged a fee to cover custodial, heating and lighting expenses. All requests are brought to the Board of Education and must meet their policy requirements.

Bill Karch, manager of Facilities Services, has a long list and a full schedule of reservations labeled SCHOOL (P.T.O., Scholarship Fund, Alumni, State Art Council) and STUDENT (soccer club, midgeet football, Babe Ruth baseball, Scouts - Boys, Girls, Cubs, Brownies) but that is only the beginning.

The Recreation Department takes full advantage of the many fields and gyms to schedule folk and square dancing groups, senior citizens, and athletic programs such as basketball, volleyball, softball and gymnastics.

COMMUNITY USE is by far the longest category in the facilities office. Some groups opt for education: the First Aid course, Princeton Adult School, American Field Service's work in the exchange student program. Others are music oriented: the Princeton Community Orchestra, Princeton University Band, Folk Music Society, Mercer County Symphony. One set of musicians may be looking for rehearsal space while another needs an auditorium for a concert to involve even more of the townspeople. There are local organizations (Borough and Township Police, United Fund, Health Department, Youth Center, Princeton Defense League), area groups (State Health Department, League of Women Voters, Youth Tennis Foundation) and, to top it off, church and nursery school committees join the list.

What is the reason for such a heavy schedule? A wide range of spaces available both indoors and outside with adjacent parking lots ... and all of this in either neighborhood or central town locations! Even "pick-up" games of softball may be underway on any of seven school fields for vacant lots are no longer easy to find, yet future Hall-of-Famers do need practice. Walk by any school and watch for lights and action, the schools are an activity center, a community asset, and, best of all, they belong to everyone.

SENIOR citizens are welcome at all PRS public events at NO cost. Athletics in season, concerts, plays and exhibits are all open. Show your identification at the gate for a free seat. Plan to attend a high school football game this fall, bring along your friends to cheer on the team!

GIFTED and talented workshops will be held by EIC (Educational Improvement Center) this Fall. Advance registration with fee is necessary since it is on a first-come, first-served basis. EIC is located at 50 Lake Drive, Hightstown 08520, and the cost is $1.50 per session. Current offerings are:

Wednesday, 12 October, 9-11.30 a.m. "The Gifted and Talented" - Identification, Organization, Programming, Instruction

Wednesday, 12 October, 1-3.30 p.m. "Identification of Gifted-Talented" Testing, Observation, Peer-parent Data

Additional sessions will take place on November 4, 28 and 29 concerning teaching strategies, curriculum and program models.

WEDNESDAY afternoons with the high school staff shows them busily engaged in a number of activities dealing with curriculum development and other school needs. Specifically, they plan to: implement the district and high school goals; continue curriculum revision and development with the aim of meeting the needs of all students; place greater emphasis on the teaching of basic skills; develop T and E performance objectives; intensify efforts in staff development and evaluation; continue implementation of Affirmative Action; conduct self-study in preparation of the Middle Atlantic States Evaluation; provide more individual guidance; revise the Physical Ed. time allotment and system of grading; review the process of student evaluation.

MEETING SUNDAY

For Common Cause. Members of Common Cause in the Princeton area, and any one else interested in learning about the organization, have been invited to a meeting next Sunday at 2 at the home of Josephine and John Werth, 204 Bertrand Drive.

Common Cause is the citizens' lobby for reform in government which was formed in 1970 by John Gardner whose goal was to remove big money and secrecy from the political process. The organization now has more than 250,000 members, with 11,000 in New Jersey.

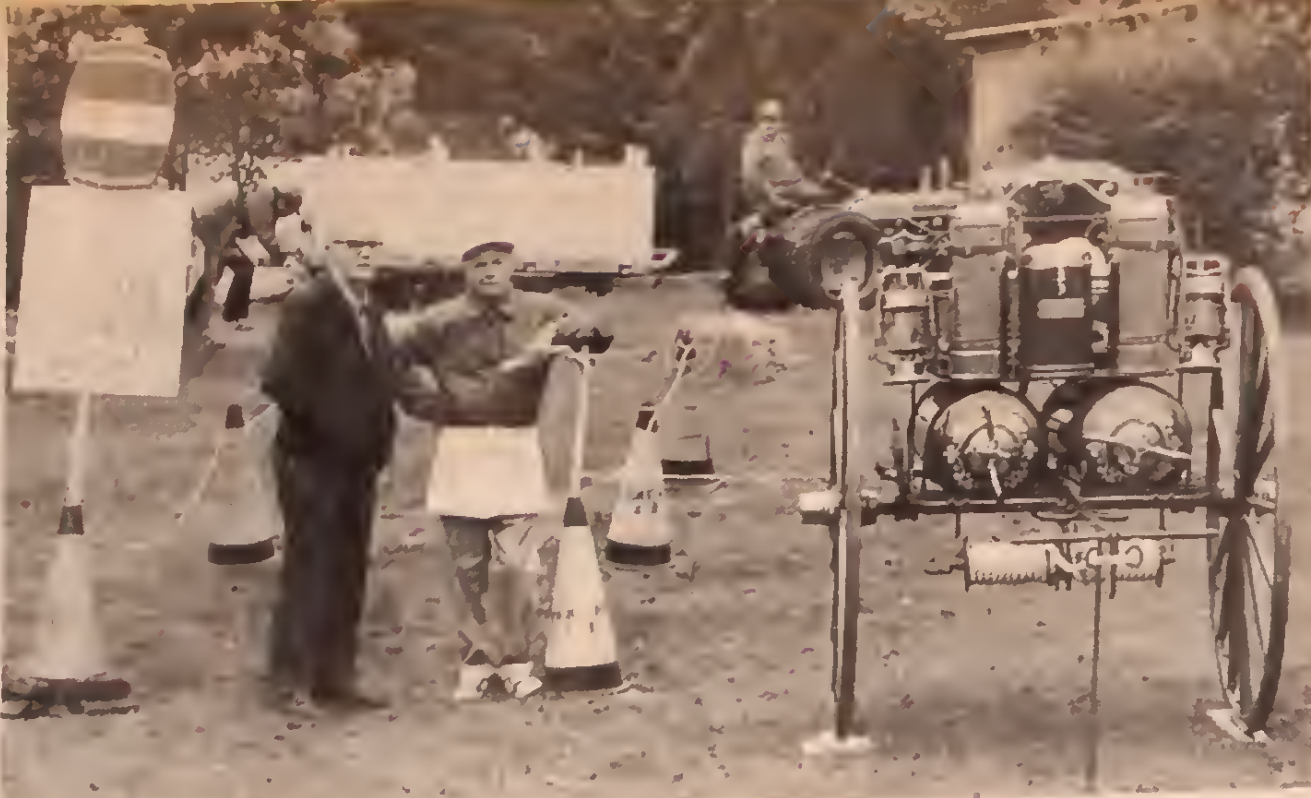

The meeting on Sunday, which will be attended by Randy Hawa, the Executive Director, and members of the N.J. State Steering Committee, will focus on issues, both national and state, that are currently of interest to Common Cause members. These include the energy programs at both levels, conflict-of-interest legislation, and legislation for financial disclosure by public officials and lobbyist disclosure.

RALLYE PLANNED

By Jaycees. "Goodbye Columbus" is the name of the game, a gimmick road rallye sponsored by the Princeton Jaycees, which will be held on Sunday, October 9, rain or shine.

The starting location is the Stony Brook Country Club on Rte. 518 Spur in Hopewell, and the first car out will be at 11:30. Starting positions will be assigned on a first come, first served basis, and entrants should be at the starting location by 10:30 to receive starting assignments and course corrections. Trophies will be awarded to both driver and navigator in first, second and third places, and certificates will be given to fourth through 10th place.

No previous rallye experience is necessary. All one needs is a working odometer and a pencil. The registration fee is $5 and blanks are available from the Jaycees at 199 Nassau Street.

BID 'N' BUY READY

In Rocky Hill. Saturday is the day for the 12th annual Rocky Hill Bid 'n' Buy from 10 to 5 in Panico Park. The fair benefits the Rocky Hill Community Group.

Under the big tent Vic Washkevitz will auction off junk, jewels and jazz from 11 to 2. The Gourmet booth will have a variety of home-prepared packages to please all palates as well as an elegant gourmet basket to be raffled off. Fall produce, pumpkins, vegetables and Indian corn will be sold at the Green Thumb in addition to Emperor tulip bulbs, white daffodils, crocuses and crysanthemums.

There will be a produce contest for the biggest home-grown pumpkin, zucchini, sunflower, watermelon, tomato, pole bean, carrot, cabbage, cucumber or ear of corn. Judging will be at 2 by Donald Drake and awards will be made at 3 by Mayor John Pettibone.

A collection of people's talent, time, services and equipment will be each available to the highest bidder of the silent auction. These include a day of pleasure in a plane, canoe, pool or sailboat; lessons at the pinno, in a language or in backgammon; a complete meal for 8, 10 or 12 with dishes from any of the seven continents; a magician, a craftsman or a baby sitter.

A decoupage handbag will be offered as a raffle item at

ALL SET FOR THE BID 'N' BUY: Rocky Hill's annual fair this Saturday features fire trucks and hayrides, along with its many other attractions. the Handicraft Booth. This booth will also have the popular Rocky Hill aprons and dried flower arrangements. A highlight of this year's Bid 'n' Buy will be the Rocky Hill Cookbook put together by the Rocky Hill Community Group under the chairmanship of Bineke Oort and Judy Bergman.

Other attractions include the book sale, the white elephant, children's activities of all kinds, music by the Blawenburg Band and a barbershop quartet, magic by Robert Mikszal, a chemical phenomena show by Doug Eveleigh and an endless supply of food and sweets.

WILSON IS NAMED

To Republican Campaign. Donald M. (Nick) Wilson has been appointed to head the Republican campaign in Princeton Township. His candidates for Committee are William Cherry and Tom Haber. (Picture on page 7B.)

"I share the view of the candidates that the campaign provides a unique opportunity for residents to focus on local issues while considering the candidates," he said this week. "A major effort will be to obtain the widest possible distribution of a questionnaire which will bring issues to the attention of the voters and solicit their responses directly to the candidates."

A member of the Republican County Committee, Mr. Wilson is also on the Township Board of Improvement Assessors, and recorder for the schools Bond Referendum Advisory Committee, known as BARC. An attorney, he is second vice-president of New York Life Insurance in its New York office of general counsel. His responsibility is in the area of governmental and legislative affairs.

PUBLIC INVITED

To History Course. An orientation mini-course designed for guides at Bainbridge House, headquarters of the Historical Society will be open to the public as far as space permits from 9:30 to 11:30 on four successive Mondays in October.

The lead-off talk, to be given on Monday by Mrs. Alma Field, will focus on the 18th-century houses of Princeton. Mrs. Field, who was chairman of the Historical Society's Markers Committee, has done extensive research on Princeton's revolutionary and pre-revolutionary buildings. She also developed the Bicentennial Map of Princeton.

The following Monday, October 10, Mrs. Bruce Westcott will discuss 18th-century furnishings and decoration. Mrs. Westcott has studied American decorative arts at New York University and at the Henry Francis du Pont Winterthur Museum.

On October 17 Elric Endersby will talk about his work on the Princeton History Project which he directs in addition to serving as editor of the Princeton Recollector. The program for October 24 will be a workshop for volunteers, old and new, on Bainbridge House and on procedures for the book and gift shop.

"This mini-course is one of a number of events we plan for our volunteers to make them better able to adapt their remarks to their audience and to enable them to answer questions effectively, explains

BANK TO EXPAND

PB&T Acquires 4 New Offices. James Stewart, III, President of Princeton Bank and Trust Company, and David S. Cooper, President of Mid-Jersey National Bank, have signed a final agreement whereby Princeton Bank would acquire the assets and assume the liabilities of Mid-Jersey.

The transaction, subject to Mid-Jersey shareholder approval and necessary regulatory approvals, would provide for a cash payment to Mid-Jersey equivalent to $15 per share. It is anticipated that the acquisition will be finalized in early 1978.

Princeton Bank, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Horizon Bancorp., operating eight offices in the Princeton area, would acquire Mid-Jersey's four offices in Woodbridge which would become branches of Princeton Bank staffed by Mid-Jersey personnel. The combined organization would be able to provide Mid-Jersey's customers with a broader array of banking services and greater lending ability.

Horizon Bancorp., with total assets of approximately $700,000,000, is a financial services company which, in addition to Princeton Bank and Trust, is made up of American National Bank & Trust of New Jersey, Horizon Creditcorp., a bank-related subsidiary specializing in secondary mortgage loans, and yacht and equipment financing, and Mortgage Investment Securities, Inc., which offers a variety of mortgage loan services including residential and commercial mortgage loan origination and mortgage loan servicing.

with malfunctioning septic systems so certified by the health commission, and which can't be corrected by ordinary means. There is no question about allowing these homeowners to connect to the sewer, at any time.

Next come people who owned property when the ban was imposed, and whose development was interrupted, or where the owner installed a septic system or holding tank because of the ban. These owners must apply to the Sewer Operating Committee by next Monday, October 3.

After them, are those who were appealing on Wednesday to Committee: owners who installed holding tanks or septic systems because of the ban, or who have homes under construction or just completed. They must apply by October 17, but they can get their allocations from the SOC on October 3.

Fourth in line are owners who had property on the date of the moratorium but have done nothing with the property. They must apply by November 14.

Applicants must be prepared to use sewer permits immediately, and only one permit will be issued to the same owner. This is intended to forestall developers. Also, water-conservation fixtures are to be used.

'HAVE WE NOT ALL ONE FATHER? HATH NOT ONE GOD CREATED US?' Malachi 2:10

A lot of people acknowledge God as Father. But do they really understand the man He made?

As you get a deeper understanding of the Bible, the spiritual nature of man and of all creation appears. Then Christian unity and the brotherhood of man appear in your life, too.

Selections from the Bible and Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, to be read in our church service this Sunday, will help you understand the Bible's message of brotherly love in a new light.

Fox & Lazo, the largest Realtor in the Delaware Valley, is expanding into the Princeton area and is looking for dedicated sales associates.

We've been in business since 1886. Last year, we did a sales volume of $58 million.

Now we're expanding aggressively.

Into the Philadelphia Main Line. Into Bucks County.

And Central New Jersey.

The man in charge of our Princeton Junction office is Jack Burke, our vice-president.

Jack blueprinted our expansion plan. And he's looking for the kind of people he knows can make it work.

A proven sales record would be nice — but it's not mandatory. The right attitude is. And our two-week training program will get you off on the right foot.

Call or write Jack today. This is probably what you've been waiting for.

SOMETHING OLD - SOMETHING NEW

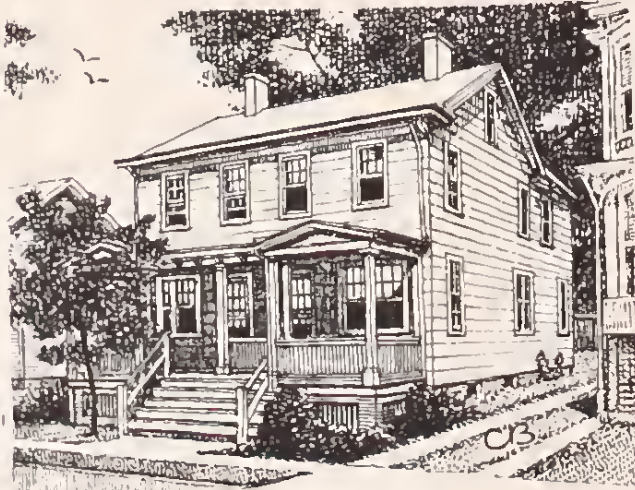

Thick stone walls, mellow wide floor boards, shimmering old glass panes set in deep window enclosures, lovely old beams - here is a house with old time charm, and one that has been renovated and restored in a tasteful way. Set far back from the road on eight high acres overlooking a quiet farm pond, it offers a private country setting just four miles from Princeton.

Living room with working fireplace, pleasant dining room with fireplace that could be re-opened, wonderful, recently remodelled country kitchen, cozy study-bedroom with adjoining full bath. Upstairs, four bedrooms, master dressing room, three baths and - surprising in a house dating back almost to revolutionary times - excellent closets and storage. Distinctive two story screened porch opening to master bedroom, upstairs hall-sitting room and living room.

Add to all this a handsome in-ground pool with architect designed cabana (!), a charming pentagonal gazebo, and 2-3 car garage. Woods, fields and stream - easily subdivisible.

Could you ask for more?

Private Treatment
 for Learning Disorders

Barbara M. Knickerbocker, registered occupational therapist, Fellow, American Occupational Therapy Association, and also a well-known lecturer and school consultant, announces an expansion of her program. Therapy for learning disordered children is designed to cope with pre-school readiness problems, gross and fine motor skills, promote development of the underlying sensorimotor foundations for writing, reading, spelling, and math, and to reduce the child's disorganization, frustration, and hyperactivity in the classroom. This therapy places a strong focus on the parents' orientation and involvement. Adolescents and adults who continue to face the frustration of their own learning disorders can also be helped through therapy. Major medical insurance may be applicable.

Ft. of hand crafted imported Bologna ceramic tile and Bufalini Italian marble.

Also on this level is a master bedroom with super dressing room and bath.

University Art Museum Not a Hidden Asset But One Whose Riches Are Available to All

A serene and joyous space, embracing the Promethean sculptures of Jacques Lipchitz and the delicate wash of an Italian drawing, the Princeton University Art Museum is not only a University resource, it is a community delight.

Its doors are open to anyone who wants to enter. And it is absolutely free. "How many museums do you know that don't charge admission!" exclaims Millie Morgan, president of the Friends of the Art Museum.

Mrs. Morgan and Bailey Symington, who runs Friends' tours, are dismayed, more often than they wish, by people who say they have never joined the Friends "..... because I've never been invited to," not realizing that anyone may join. Jean Turner, co-ordinator of school programs for the museum and head of museum volunteers, is dismayed in her turn by people who think you have to be associated with the University to be a museum volunteer.

"Not at all!" she emphasizes, "but right now, there is a waiting list."

How to Reach It. The museum building, conservatively contemporary in design, is deep inside the campus. It is most easily reached by walking in from gold.

Nassau Street to Firestone Library and the Chapel, bearing right toward Murray Theatre, then right and back, watching always for the splendid Picasso "Head of a Woman" which guards the entrance.

Across the foyer and through the inviting glass inner doors, your greeting comes from the exquisite "Nereid," of sculptor Carl Milles, rising from her bed of green plants.

The sculpture in this lower hall gives you a hint of the variety in the museum as a whole — the massive Lipchitz "Prometheus Strangling the Vulture" contrasting with the delicacy of the Milles and a surprising pair of cowboys by Frederick Remington — while the openness of the hall draws your eye to the paintings on the main floor, above.

You realize that you'll have to explore further — to Monet's "Charing Cross Bridge" and "Waterlilies and Japanese Bridge" to the medieval gallery with its St. John the Baptist statue, from the Burgundy of 1425.

If you go downstairs first, there are the pre-Columbian and Oriental art exhibits, the masks and figures from the Ivory Coast and the Ashanti reached by walking in from gold.

Italian Drawings on View. The newest exhibit at the Museum is the one displaying Italian drawings from the museum's own collection, with a two-volume catalogue by Felton Gibbons of the Department of Art and Architecture. There are over 900 drawings in those two volumes.

Cezanne watercolors have been assembled in a special exhibit, and there are several prints collected for study purposes at the request of the visual arts department.

"The major function of the museum is to teach," explains Mary Wisnovsky, who directs community relations for the museum. "When we get requests from visual arts or the department of art and archaeology, we make the space and arrange the exhibit and professors bring their students here for preceptorials. I would say that one-third to half of the art department uses us for teaching purposes."

But in the ten-year history of this museum building, a paramount question has been "How do we get the town involved?"

"The Friends were started in 1967," Mrs. Morgan says, "and we have a broad membership in the town."

A single person can join for $20 a year (tax-deductible); families for $25 and any University employee for $15. Naturally, larger memberships are available.

Members are invited to evening openings of major exhibits, they receive a substantial illustrated magazine three times a year in which scholars analyze various art works, they may go on tours as brief as the trip to New York planned for December 12, to see the "Age of Spirituality" at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, or as lengthy as the two-week trip this summer to honor the 400th anniversary of the birth of Rubens with visits to Antwerp and other cities where his works are displayed.

Tours Profitable. Tours are a substantial fund-raiser for the Friends, bringing in around $10,000 of the $25,000 contribution the Friends gave the museum last year for operating expenses.

"The rest comes from large contributors giving $100 or more," Mrs. Morgan says.

On October 20, Friends may attend the third annual Fall Lecture, to be given this year by Jacques Barzun on "The TIME'S RUNNING SHORT...

Premiere is Next Week. "The Confirmation" is in firm rehearsal at McCarter, in readiness for next Thursday's world premiere. Curtain-time on October 8 will be 7:30. The play will run through October 23.

Howard Ashman, the playwright, is a 27-year-old native of Baltimore who is now artistic director of off-off-Broadway's WPA Theatre. Under a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, he has just finished preliminary work on "The Spurgeons," a family saga for public television.

He has set "The Confirmation" in the suburban Baltimore of his boyhood. As a youth, he attended Goddard College — also in the Baltimore area — before moving on to Indiana University.

He has said that his education is continuing, as he prepares for production such off-off-Broadway offerings as his "Mud Season," "Cause Maggie's Afraid of the Dark" and a musical version of Shakespeare's "The Tempest" called "Dreamstuff."

The director of "The Confirmation" is Kenneth Frankel, whom McCarter audiences will remember for his direction last year of Shaw's "Major Barbara". Two years ago, he directed McCarter's revival of Odets' "Awake and Sing."

This past summer, Mr. Frankel, as artistic director of the Shakespeare Festival of Dallas, directed Philip Kerr in "Macbeth." He has been a guest director at New Haven's Long Wharf Theatre, and associate director of the Williamstown Summer Theatre.

ONE WOMAN
In Intime Show. "Women I Have Known," is the subject of a one-woman show to be given under the sponsorship of Theatre Intime in Murray Theater (on the University campus) this Saturday at 8 p.m.

Tulis Sessions will be the performer, using as props a cane, a shawl, a rug and a chair. With these props and herself, she brings to life seven female heroes of the women's rights movement, including Anne Hutchinson, Edith Wilson, Sojourner Truth and Margaret Sanger.

Each character is introduced by a narrator, and then portrayed through her own words.

"Pithy, witty, stinging, evocative," wrote the Soho Weekly News, "funny and touching, suitable for consumption even by those for whom women's lib causes heartburn or cramps."

"A female Mark Twain," said the "Show Business" critic, "drawing, cantankerous, philosophical and witty."

Reservations may be made at 452-8181.

'RAINMAKER' COMING
To Open George St. Season. The George Street Playhouse in New Brunswick will open its fourth professional season on October 7 with a production of "The Rainmaker." It will play through October 30.

"The Rainmaker" is N. Richard Nash's warm, romantic portrait of ordinary people and special dreams. Set in a midwestern town in the first half of this century, it presents modern and traditional views on love and marriage with gentle humor.

Eric Loeb, familiar to Playhouse audiences for his portrayals of Giles Ralston in "The Mousetrap" and Lucky in "Waiting for Godot," will direct. The cast features Suzanne Heitmann as Lizzie. Ms. Heitmann has appeared on George Street as Miss Casewell, suspected of murder in "The Mousetrap" and as Ellen in "Luv."

Her blustery brother Noah is portrayed by Kenneth Gray, a favorite with Playhouse audiences for his portrayal of Dracula in the George Street production of "Count Dracula." Dana Mills as Starbuck, Nicholas Saunders as H.C., Kevin McClarnon as Jimmy and Swift O'Keefe as the sheriff round out the cast. Set design is by George Street's Resident Designer Allen Cornell with lighting by Dan Stratman, the Playhouse's newly-appointed Technical Director.

Single tickets go on sale October 4. Performances are Thursdays through Sundays, with matinees on Sundays, October 23 and 30 at 2:30.

Season subscriptions for "The Rainmaker" and the season of contemporary works, dramas, comedies and farces are on sale at the box office, located at 414 George St. in New Brunswick, or may be reserved by calling the Playhouse at 201-246-7717.

PERFORM!
In CTU Workshop. A performance workshop for students in grades six through 12 will be offered this season by Creative Theatre Unlimited. Pam Hoffman, director of CTU's Performance Troupe, will lead.

The class is scheduled for Fridays from 4-6, and participants must register for the entire season. Auditions are being held this week at the CTU studios, 33 Mercer Street.

"Many young people today want an opportunity to try their wings acting, designing, directing and writing for an audience," Ms. Hoffman says. "We hope to do at least one production, drawn from the works of Thurber, Mark Twain or such favorites as 'Spoon River Anthology'."

Filmmaking "from start to finish," will be offered Mondays from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., also under Ms. Hoffman's direction. Students will have an opportunity to do animation, documentary and editing in both super 8 and regular 8mm film.

Information on both courses may be obtained from CTU at 924-3489.

Truffaut's 'Small Change' First Film Offered By 'Movies-at-McCarter,' Starting October 11

House lights will dim—well, somebody will darken the 10 McCosh auditorium in McCosh Hall on the University campus—on Tuesday, October 11, for the first screening of the first film in McCarter's 1977-78 "Movies-at-McCarter" series.

It will be Francois Truffaut's "Small Change," described by McCarter as the French director's "valentine to the world of children." Like most films in the series, "Small Change" will have four showings: at 7 and 9 Tuesday and Wednesday, October 11 and 12. Like all films in the series, it will be shown in McCosh 10. All seats are unreserved, and single tickets are available at the McCosh 10 door at show-time only, if any are left after subscriptions have been sold.

Ingmar Bergman's "The Magic Flute" will be given six showings: at 7 and 9:30 on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 18, 19 and 20.

In this color filming of the Mozart opera, originally made for Swedish television, Bergman has made the audience and backstage areas of his theatre an integral part of the production. He displays the props of his forest, explores the wonders of the temple of Wisdom and invites his singers to arrive in balloons.

The Fitzgerald Era. "The Magic Flute" will be followed on October 31 and November 1 by Elia Kazan's adaptation of F. Scott Fitzgerald's "The Last Tycoon," with screenplay by Harold Pinter. Robert de Niro stars as a 1930's movie mogul who becomes a casualty of the world of Wall Street, union organizers and investors.

Other American films in the series will be Harlan County, U.S.A., the documentary about a year-long strike of coal miners; "Jackson County Jail," a B-Movie described as an unusually strong example of its category; "Bound for Glory," a film biography of Woody Guthrie starring David Carradine; "Stay Hungry," in which Jeff Bridges is a young southern aristocrat involved in the world of body-building and Robert Altman's "Three Women."

The longest film in the series—almost four and one-half hours—will be Marcel Ophuls' documentary, "The Memory of Justice," starting with the Nuremberg trials and applying their precepts to the French in Algeria and the Americans in Vietnam. It will be shown three times, at 7 p.m. only on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, February 28 and March 1 and 2.

More From France. Other French films in the series will be Tavernier's "The Clockmaker," a story of father and son relationships adapted from the Georges Simenon novel; Jeanne Moreau's "Lumiere," a semi-autobiographical film in which Mme. Moreau makes her debut as a director and also plays the central role; Eric Rohmer's "the Marquise of O," a literal re-telling of an 1808 story by the German writer von Kleist and a double bill of two films by two French directors. The first is Claude Miller's "The Best Way" and the other is Pascal Thomas' "Les Zouzous," about adolescence in the 1950s.

Two films come from Swiss directors. One is Alain Tanner's "Jonah Who Will be 25 in the Year 2000," described by its director as "a dramatic tragi-comedy in political science fiction;" and Claude Corretta's "The Wonderful Crook," about a small-time businessman who robs banks.

The new German cinema, regarded by many critics as the most vital in contemporary Europe, will be represented by Rainer Werner Fassbinder's "Chinese Roulette," a Gothic Thriller; Werner Herzog's "Aguirre," set in the Peru of 1500 and Wim Wenders' "The Goalie's Anxiety at the Penalty Kick," a methodical record of the way one man comes apart.

Other films include a three-hour study of the Norwegian painter Edvard Munch; the Spanish film, "Spirit of the Beehive," about Spain at the end of the Civil War; the Academy-Award Winner from Canada called "The Man Who

14TH SEASON NEARS
For Community Orchestra.
The Princeton Community
Orchestra will hold its first meeting of the 1977-78 season on Thursday, October 6, at 8 p.m. in the Band Room of the Princeton High School. As in former years the director will be Joseph Kovacs, noted violinist and teacher, and member of the faculty of Douglass College music department.

The Community Orchestra is primarily a reading orchestra rather than a performing group. It welcomes instrumentalists, both professional and amateur, who take pleasure in getting together twice a month to play fine orchestral music. The requirements for membership are an interest in the music, and an ability to read the part at sight.

Meetings are held on the first and third Thursdays of each month through May.
Dues are collected from the members to meet expenses
such as the purchase of music.
For further information call
Mr. Kovacs, at 921-8732, or
Peter Cook, treasurer, at 924-4835.

TWO TO PERFORM
On Classical Asian Instruments. A free concert of Hindustani instrumental music will be presented on Sunday, October 2 at 3 p.m. at Woolworth Center, under the auspices of the Princeton University Music Department with Carleton College, Northfield, Minn. and the Friends of Music.

The artists appearing will be Ustad Asad Ali Khan, performing on the bin (rudra-vina), the oldest extant classical instrument of India, and Pandit Gopal Das, on the pakhavaj.

Ustad Ali Khan is a true
"qharanadar" (musician from a recognized lineage) in the traditional sense. His early ancestors were in service to the Maharajas of Jaipur, while his grandfather,
Musharraf Khan, and father Sadiq Ali Khan, both famous bin players, were court musicians at Alwar in the early decades of this century.
Ustad Ali Khan is noted for the purity of his style and for the mood of profound contemplation evoked by his playing.

Only a handful of musicians practice the bin today, and the centuries-old traditions of the instrument are in peril of being lost. Ustad Ali Khan stands foremost among those preserving this dying art.

Pandit Gopal Das, percussionist, will provide accompaniment on the pakhavaj, the drum
traditionally played with the bin. There are few masters of the pakhavaj today and opportunities to hear ensemble playing by the two instruments are rare even in India.

PROGRAM OFFERED

At Choir College. A concert of 20th century music will be performed by members of the Westminster Choir College
faculty and administration
Tuesday at 8 in the College Playhouse. The public is invited free of charge.

Peter D. Wright, associate dean and registrar and a pianist by training, will play works by Shostakovich and Bartok. He will be joined by Lois Laverty and Judith Nicosia, sopranos, and Daniel Pratt, head of the voice department, in compositions
by Charles Ives, Debussy, Frank Bridge, Samuel Barber and James Waters, a former Westminster faculty member.
As a change of pace, Inn
Cabaret performers Roo
Brown, Liz Fillo and Steve Fillo will join Mr. Wright in a Gershwin medley.

PIANIST TO PLAY

In Friends Concert. The Friends of Music will present pianist Bennett Lerner at Woolworth Center on Friday, October 7, at 8:30 in a free concert.

Mr. Lerner is a graduate of the Manhattan School of Music and has studied with Claudio Arrau, Rafael de Silva, Sascha Gorodnitzki and Robert Helps. He is currently on the faculty of the Manhattan School of Music
Preparatory Division.

Highlights of his career include frequent appearances with the Boston Pops
Orchestra and the Miami Beach Symphony Orchestra, and a tour of Germany. He is active in New York City's contemporary music, appearing with such groups as
The Group for contemporary Music and the New Music
Consort, and has premiered
many new works. In October of 1976, he made his New York debut.

Mr. Lerner appeared in Princeton, under the auspices of the Friends, in January of 1976 in a program of American piano music. For Friday's concert, he will perform Schumann: Variations on the name "Abegg;" and "Davidsbündlertanze";
Felix Mendelssohn: "Rondo
Capriccioso,"; Franz Liszt:
"Au Bord d'une source" and "Ballade No. 2 in B Minor."

Pure Nonsense of Pure Art." The first Fall Lecture two years ago, by Lord Kenneth Clark, was given to a packed house. Last year's, by former Met director Thomas Hoving, was equally well-attended. An open - to - the - public lecture will be given October 26 (3 p.m., at the museum) by Jack Martin, of the University faculty.

A strong tie to the Princeton community has been developed by Mrs. Turner's school program committee.

"Any teacher in any school may call and arrange for a walk - through of the museum for her class, with a guide," Mrs. Turner points out. "The teacher may want to talk it over with us: a literature class, for example, might study what a sculptor does with plot and character, and there are all sorts of things that link with social studies."

Fish hooks from an early culture, tools of bronze or bone, jewelry, a carved oak chest, the low doorway of carved stone from 15th - century France and what its dimensions may say about the size of people in that day, and of course the African masks and the figure ceramics from pre - Columbian America.

Schools Are Responsive. Mrs. Turner reports that a recent talk with the new assistant superintendent of Princeton schools, Paul Jennings, was "very fruitful" and resulted in a memo to principals encouraging them to use the museum's facilities.

At Johnson Park, Mrs. Turner continues, teachers substituted a tour of the museum for a faculty meeting, discussing with volunteers what the museum had to offer.

For some time, the museum has held "Museum Break" talks, exploring in 20 minutes or so for office workers during lunch hour, the history and meaning of a single work of art.

Now, there are Junior Museum Breaks for children 7 years and older (See "Calendar," TOWN TOPICS). Junior breaks will be Saturday at 11 a.m., and will last about 20 - 30 minutes.

On Saturday, October 8, John Burkhalter, a docent - or volunteer museum guide - will help youngsters find all the ancient instruments in the 17th - century Dutch oil called "Fete." Then he will play some of his own ancient instruments for his young audience.

Laverne George, who is planning the Junior Breaks, has assigned October 15 to a "Please Touch" investigation of outdoor sculpture on the Princeton campus, and October 22 - toward Hallowe'en - to "Devils and

Night on the Town with Cezanne (And Some of It Tax-Deductible)

Through the grapevine - actually an early Greek carving dedicated to Bacchus - Peter Bunnell, who runs Princeton University's Art Museum, heard that the "Cezanne: The Late Work" show at New York's Museum of Modern Art will draw more crowds than Tut.

Since three of Princeton's Cezannes will be in this show, and since Peter Bunnell has contacts, the Friends of the Art Museum have been given a whole evening when they can have MOMY and Cezanne all to themselves. It's Wednesday, October 12.

If you've done any on-the-towning lately, you may appreciate the nature of the Friends' bargain:

For $22.50 (each), if you're a member of the Friends, you get to attend the private viewing. The amount includes a $15 tax-deductible contribution to the Friends of the Art Museum, admission to the Museum of Modern Art and a guided tour of the Cezannes.

For another $22.50, you may dine, with wine included in the price, at the University Club in New York, a landmark building designed by Charles Follen McKim, of McKim, Mead and White. Dinner includes a brief talk on Cezanne by Marilyn McCully of Princeton's department of art and archaeology. The dinner is optional; you may choose only the museum visit.

For $5, you get a round-trip bus ride from the Princeton Shopping Center and return.

No parking hassles in New York, dinner at a fine club, a private view of great art - and something for your income-tax. Even doubled for a couple, this is a $100 evening on the town you can't beat.

Demons. An archaeological adventure into "Gravedigger" is planned for later in the fall.

Decor an Asset. For any visitor, young or old, knowledgeable about art or innocent, the museum is a pleasant place to be. Much of the credit is due to Allen Rosenbaum, assistant director, who decides whether to group plants at the feet of a medieval statue, or to place a single dramatic plant in a special place. He determines, after possibly half a dozen tries, what the color of wall paint should be for a particular display. (Walls are painted anew to complement each exhibit). He decides which drawing should be hung next to which, and what kind of lettering should be used to enlighten the visitor. Also, occasionally, he will rearrange the permanent collections so that a painting may strike your eye with fresh light.

If you're interested in joining the Friends, you may call 452-3762 and leave your name.

The museum is open every day except Monday. Hours are 10 to 4, and Sundays from 1-5 during the academic year.

FROM WYETH SHOW: "The American Mother," painted by N.C. Wyeth in 1941 for a Squibb advertisement, is part of a Wyeth show now at the Squibb Gallery. The display poster depicts the artist's daughter, Ann Wyeth McCory, and her son, Denys.

ART

N.C. WYETH ON VIEW

At Squibb Gallery. Landscapes, portraits, still-lives and illustrations by N.C. Wyeth will be on exhibit through October at the Squibb Gallery, Lawrenceville Road.

The exhibition is on loan from the Brandywine River Museum, Chadds Ford, Pennsylvania - Wyeth's home - and from several private collectors, including Squibb itself.

The Squibb-owned work, "American Mother" (see photo) was executed in 1941 for a company advertisement. The egg tempera painting will be donated by Squibb to the Brandywine River Museum following the exhibition.

For almost 40 years, Wyeth illustrated the classic adventure stories of Western literature, such as Robin Hood and "Treasure Island," and by the end of his life, he had to his credit nearly 200 books, stories in hundreds of magazines and countless calendars, posters, brochures and advertisements.

In his spare time, Wyeth sketched in the fields around Chadds Ford and painted large easel pictures, figures and landscapes. Samples of all these styles are included in the Squibb show, along with family pictures of Mrs. Wyeth at work in the kitchen, son Andrew at the age of five and the artist himself.

Hours at Squibb are 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and until 9 p.m. Thursday. Sunday hours are 1 - 5, and the gallery is closed Saturdays.

EXHIBIT PLANNED

At Unitarian Church. "Apocalyptic and Prophetic Works (1967-1976)" by painter-printmaker Jacob Landau will be on exhibit at the Unitarian Church of Princeton beginning October 8 with a reception to meet the artist 3 to 5. The exhibit of watercolors and lithographs will be on view Saturday afternoons from 1 to 4 through October.

Well-known as an artist of the human condition, Mr. Landau brings to his work his involvement with the thoughtful writers of the past and present, his concern for political protest and reform and his search to communicate universal concerns within Biblical themes.

Mr. Landau is a recent recipient of a purchase award at the Society of American Graphic Artists Show at A.C.A. Gallery in New York and a Myrtle Wreath Award Northern New Jersey Region of Hadassah, for contributions to humanity. His two major recent projects include "The Prophetic Quest," ten paintings for a cycle of stained glass windows for Congregation Keneseth Israel in Philadelphia and a suite of lithographs illustrating Dante's "Divine Comedy," done mostly at Tamarind under a Ford Foundation grant.

PAINTINGS ON DISPLAY

At Western Electric. An exhibit of figurative paintings entitled "Bathers and other Heroes" by Howard Siskowitz is on display at the Gallery of Western Electric's Corporate Education Center on Carter Road in Hopewell.

Mr. Siskowitz, a native of Princeton, studied at the Philadelphia College of Art and the School of Visual Arts in New York City. He has participated in several New Jersey State jury exhibitions, and received honorable mention for his work in a recent Princeton Art Association Exhibition. During the past four years, he has been a scenic artist and carpenter at Princeton's McCarter Theatre.

The Gallery is open to the public from 9 to 4 on weekdays, and from 2 to 5 on Sundays. The show will continue through October 21.

Prof. Willig will exhibit about 100 of his advertising pages, graphic designs and original layouts, selected from more than 5,000 assignments produced in a 20-year career as a designer and art director in New York City and Miami, Fla.

In the Library Gallery will be an exhibit of about 50 of the artist's oil paintings, watercolors, sculptures and ceramics, done in a variety of styles, realistic, figurative, expressionistic, cubistic, abstract and non-objective.

Prof. Willig is a graduate of The Cooper Union with a BFA from Pratt Institute and an MA from Rutgers University. He also studied painting and sculpture at N.Y.U. and architecture at the University of Miami. He joined Mercer County Community College in 1968 as chairman of the art and design department.

ART TALKS PLANNED

For Children at Museum. A series of weekly Junior Museum Breaks, a variation of the popular adult sessions designed for schoolchildren, will be held at the Princeton University Art Museum on Saturdays at 11, beginning October 8. The children's breaks, which will be approximately 20 minutes long, will examine several works on display in the museum.

Museum docent John Burkhalter will start the series with "Sounds Pictures Might Make," using modern copies of antique double-reed wind instruments such as the krummhorn and the rauschpfeife. While the children view the late 14th-century painting by an anonymous Florentine master now on display, for example, they will hear and learn about the instruments being played by the angel musicians in the painting.

Junior Museum Breaks planned for the following weeks include "Devils and Demons"; "Please Touch," dealing with outdoor sculpture on the Princeton campus; lessons on armor; and a discussion of archeologists' work in ancient tombs. Museum officials request that children under seven be accompanied by an adult.

WATERCOLORS ON VIEW

At Medical Center. The Princeton Medical Center has on exhibit the watercolor paintings of Miriam Friend of Princeton. The show will hang in the coffee shop of the Center through October 30.

Mrs. Friend is a graduate of the College of New Rochelle and the Columbia University School of Library Service who had a career in special library work in New York and is substitute librarian in the Montgomery Township School. A member of the Princeton Art Association since 1965, she has studied there under Dogmar Tribble, Ranulph Bye and Lucille Geiser, and has served as Princeton Art Association secretary, vice president and publicity chairman. Her work has been shown in juried and group exhibits.

Run in Pantyhose? Run to Buy 20¢ Stockings!

A DOLLAR? For five pairs of pantyhose? That's right. Actually, it's a dollar contributed to Lloyd Terrace, the housing project for the elderly on Harrison Street, and there are 10,000 pairs of these stockings available there. They come from the storage bunker beneath Landau's, the Nassau Street store. British imports, in nice neutral shades like tan, taupe, black, grey, off-white that aren't-well, quite so fashionable as they once were. They'd cost about $5 today, but they were selling for $2 and $3 a pair a few years ago.

Landau had all these thousands because the store not only sold them retail, but distributed them nationally. Then fickle fashion, etc. etc. Robert Landau contributed the hose — all of 'em — to Lloyd Terrace, which has already sold 900 pairs. But there are so many left over! Not just pantyhose, but stay-up stockings, as well, in the weight manufacturers refer to delicately as "walking sheer."

Stop at the Lloyd Terrace office, buy 50 pairs for $10 if you want to, or just five for a buck.

As we said above, your money will be a contribution to Lloyd Terrace. Mr. Landau is THROUGH with those stockings.

Touchdowns Tigers Seek So Desperately Unlikely to Develop At Brown, Where 8th Loss in Row Would Set All-Time Record

PASS RUSH: Defensive tackle Pete Funke and end Billy Mitchell (81) converge on Rutgers quarterback Bert Kosup, forcing him to overthrow pass in third period of Saturday's game. Kosup was successful, however, on 11 of 14 other attempts, including one of 29 yards for winning touchdown, as Scarlet triumphed, 10-6.

Loser of its first two games this season by a total of seven points, Princeton will go to Providence, R.I., this weekend to face the best of the three strong teams which comprise the first third of its schedule. Having failed to seize opportunities open to them to beat Dartmouth and Rutgers, the Tigers will continue in their role of underdogs when they face Brown Saturday.

Their predicament is much the same as it was a year ago when they came up against the Bruins in the third game on their schedule. Last fall, they were still looking for their first touchdown after two contests; this year, they have one to their credit and have gone for field goals on four occasions when six points would have made the difference between victory and defeat.

The story of the offense is virtually unchanged, although this season the fan frustration is the greater because the Orange and Black has shown it can move the ball on the ground. The passing remains inadequate, and shows little sign that it will improve.

As the season progresses, such a lack of balance will make it more difficult for Bobby Isom, Gary Larson and two or three others of some promise to gain on the ground. Isom has a two-game average of 103 yards. Larson is developing into a ball carrier good enough to keep the opposition from keying on Isom, and the veteran line is blocking with considerable authority. But the Tigers are 0-2 this year and will be debited with the longest losing streak in Princeton history (eight) if they are beaten Saturday. They can't gain more than 50 yards a game throwing the ball, and with the outcoming outcome hanging in the balance during the second half Saturday, they passed just twice. The wet conditions were no excuse -- Rutgers threw nine passes in the final 30 minutes and won the game with one of them.

Two Mistakes the Difference. Last weekend's game went to a somewhat unimpressive Rutgers team because of two Princeton mistakes. The first came when Jerry Peacock, a defensive back of great ability, had to go one-on-one deep in the end zone with the visitors' split end, Walt Hynoski. The program gave the latter a mere one-inch height advantage (5-11 to 5-10) but it appeared to be much greater, particularly when Hynoski jumped in front of Peacock for the underthrown pass and came down with it for the only touchdown of the soggy afternoon.

The second error cost Princeton a chance to win in the closing minutes, Larson fumbling and losing possession on the Rutgers' 17 to end a Princeton drive that had covered 40 yards. The Tigers had taken over on downs on their own 43 when Frank Burns, the Scarlet's coach, had incredibly elected to run the ball on fourth and one instead of kicking deep into Princeton territory. More than incidentally, Larson's fumble was the second of the season that prevented the Tigers from a shot at a game-winning TD; at Hanover a week earlier, Isom had lost the ball on the Dartmouth two.

The score was tied at the half, 3-3, after Rutgers' Ken Startzell had booted a 25-yard field goal early in the second period and Chris Howe had retaliated for Princeton five minutes later. Howe's shot, covering 49 yards with no wind and clearing the bar by a couple of feet, was 17 yards longer than his best previous effort but five yards short of the mark Charlie Gogolak set a dozen years ago.

The victors' touchdown climaxed a 63-yard drive toward the end of the third period, one that was kept alive when a third-down penalty on an incomplete pass gave the Scarlet 15 yards because Princeton had roughed up quarterback Bert Kosup.

Passing Game Ignored. Princeton took the ensuing kickoff from its own 21 to the Rutgers seven, first and goal. Not once had a pass been called, and none was on the next three downs. Two shots by Isom and a keeper by Lockhart produced a net gain of one yard and the Tigers again settled for a field goal, thus going a second year in a row without a touchdown in this game. A good defensive stand got Princeton the ball back seven yards into its own territory with almost half the period remaining. It was third and three at the visitors' 17 with two minutes left when Larson fumbled. With two time outs left, there was ample time for the Tigers to score, but they didn't have the ball.

A wet field and intermittent rain and drizzle made conditions difficult for both teams, but Rutgers completed 11 of 15 passes, one of 29 yards for the game-winner, and did not fumble once. Princeton threw 10, completed five, but four of them totalled only 28 yards. The Tigers fumbled three times, lost possession twice and left the field aware that their own mistakes had cost them a chance for an upset for the second week in a row.

Brown a Tough Foe. Generally tagged by the rest of the league with being the most physical team among the Ivies, Brown is not an opponent that a team trying to right itself will enjoy facing. The Bruins believe in rugged football and even though no

QUICK LOOK AT BROWN

OFFENSE: Three best running backs from last year's co-champions in Ivy League are on hand, operating with new quarterback Mark Whipple behind good line

DEFENSE: Always hard-nosed under Coach John Anderson, and enough veterans are back from last year to make life difficult for still toothless Tigers

CHIEF ASSET: Winning spirit Anderson has created since arriving at Providence four years ago. Bruins believe they can win, and generally do (two defeats in last 10 games).

CHIEF PROBLEM: Playing catch-up with Yale, now that it has lost to Elis again may place added pressure on Brown against teams it should beat one on the present squad has ever lost to Princeton, the current personnel is aware of the 18-year winning streak the Tigers once put together.

Paul Michalko, the quarterback who engineered an 8-1 season for Coach John Anderson last fall, has graduated but junior Mark Whipple completed 9 for 11 and a touchdown in the opener against Yale. Fullback Wally Shields and tailback Billy Hill appear ahead a good running game and the Bruins have a sound defensive unit to give them the balance necessary to win. After losing to Yale, 10-9, they topped Rhode Island, 28-10. They have not lost to Princeton since 1972.

PHS AT EWING

For Saturday Game. For the second year in a row, Princeton High football coach Jim Beachell will have less than a full week to prepare his team for its meeting with Ewing — always a physical battle for the Little Tigers.

This year, rain forced postponement of the scheduled opener with Lakewood until Monday; last year it was moved from Saturday to Monday because of the Jewish holiday.

"It will hurt us, I don't like it," said Beachell, who wanted to play Saturday despite the rain. Ewing and PHS will meet at Ewing, starting at 1:30.

The rain, however, did give Beachell and his staff a chance to scout Ewing in its opener with St. Anthony, a game Ewing won, 13-9. "They looked large," said Beachell of Ewing, pointing out the Blue Devils have one lineman 6-6, 245 pounds and another, 6-3, 235.

Ewing didn't handle the pass too well, Beachell reported, and it was inconsistent in its play, although he attributed this partially to the wet playing conditions. "Both teams," he added, "suffered from first-game jitters."

Beachell acknowledged that with the shorter preparation time and the fact that Ewing is a Group 4 school (PHS is Group 2), "The pressure is on us." Ewing won last year's meeting, 13-6.

TWO MISTAKES COSTLY

PHS Loses Grid Opener. Princeton High School's opening football game Monday with Lakewood was dead even — almost.

"We made two mistakes in punting and they didn't — make a big difference," said that's it," said PHS coach Jim Beachell, who wasn't overly disappointed about the 14-0 outcome. "We played a much better game against them than we did last year. We felt we should have won the game — they weren't any better than we were — we just made those two mistakes."

Princeton's first blunder came early. After PHS failed to move in the opening series, it punted to Piner safetyman Anthony Timms, who raced 95 yards for the TD. Beachell said that a contain man missed his assignment, allowing Timms to break to the outside.

The second lapse came in the final period when reserve center Cal Harris got off a low snap to sophomore punter Leroy Hunninghake, who mishandled the ball. Plainfield recovered on the 10 and went over three plays later.

Operating behind junior quarterback Tom Seiler, who went all the way, completing two of seven pass attempts, the Little Tigers took the opening kickoff of the second half and drove to the home-team 32. But the drive stalled when tailback Daryl Grisham was stopped short on a fourth-and-two.

"We ran the ball well, we just couldn't break a big one," said Beachell.

Cahill Outstanding. He singled out Chris Cahill for his outstanding play as a tight end on offense and defensive end, defensive tackle Jordan Paul, and sophomore guard Ian Broadwater, playing in his first varsity game.

He also cited the performance of his defensive secondary, Dave Miller, who intercepted a Piner pass, Barry Turner, Kierao Esposito, Tony Intartaglia and Bobby Campbell.

Chris McDonald, a linebacker, accounted for Princeton's other pass interception. Considering it was his first time to play the position, Seiler fashioned a solid performance at quarterback.

"One loss isn't going to make a big difference," said Beachell, who watched PHS lose its first two last year and then go on to win six of the next seven. One plus, he said, is that the team didn't sustain any serious injuries. "We're ready for Ewing."

The game with Lakewood was the last in the two game series, and perhaps Princeton is content to see it end. It was also blanked by the Piners here last year, 28-0.

LITTLE TIGERS REBOUND

In Soccer. "As I said before, this is a fine club. We outplayed two teams we lost to and if we didn't get down on ourselves, we'd be okay. We're too good a club to be 0-4."

Princeton High soccer coach Ed Beacham gave that little preamble in savoring his club's 2-1 victory over visiting Hopewell Valley Friday. The Little Tigers went from .000 to .500 in four days and as a sweetener the win over Hopewell was a Colonial Valley Conference game. What's more, the Bulldogs were supposed to be the team to beat in the conference, along with Lawrence. Instead they have gotten off to a poor 0-3 start, while PHS is 2-2.

Princeton's goal, now that it has proven it can win, is to post a .500 mark by October 15 and thus qualify for the state tournament. "We certainly have a shot at doing it," said Beacham.

Earlier in the week, the Little Tigers scored twice in a second five-minute overtime to defeat, Trenton, 4-2.

PHS will be at Hightstown Thursday and play host to St. Anthony's Monday at 3:45. Both are conference games.

Against Hopewell, Ron Celestine rammed home a direct kick from 18 yards out with 12:45 left to play for the winning goal. In the second period, fullback and co-captain Dave Wilson was given credit for a goal following a corner kick in the second period that tied the score at 1.

Hopewell's Brad Boozer had given the Bulldogs their only lead in the first period when he scored at the 5:20 mark.

Celestine, a sophomore and a native of Haiti, is clearly Princeton's outstanding player. "We have to be a little bit careful; we play to him all the time," Beacham commented. "Hun beat us when it double and tripple teamed Ron but he controls the ball when he's out there. No question about it."

Against Trenton, PHS trailed 2-0 at the half after the favored Tornadoes scored two goals in the second period. But the Little Tigers were able to control the midfield in the second half, and Johnny Miller scored on a pass from Celestine in the third quarter.

Three minutes later, Pat Gautier, senior wing, scored on a breakaway to gain the tie.

After the first overtime ended in a deadlock, Celestine put PHS ahead for the first time in the second overtime. Joel Schulman iced it with a shot that caught the left corner of the net with a minute to play.

"These kids believe in themselves," said Beacham after the Hopewell win. "This is the fanfare for the six to seven seniors on the club. They've been on the varsity since their sophomore year. They've been through the 3-15 and 4-15 seasons."

ECAC TENNIS HERE

This Weekend, Princeton University will host for the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference men's Tennis tournament this weekend. Play begins Friday morning and will run through Sunday. The finals are scheduled for Sunday at 11.

The competition will take place at the University Pagoda Courts. Approximately 20 college teams will compete in singles and doubles. Among the top seeds is Jay Lapidus, a freshman at Princeton and a Princeton resident.

HUN BOOTERS LOSE TWO

Lawrenceville, Peddie Next. The Hun School soccer team followed its big win over Princeton High School last week by dropping two one-goal decisions.

The Red and Black (1-3) was edged by Rutgers Prep, 2-1, Friday, the winning goal coming on a penalty kick with five minutes to play, and by Delbarton earlier, 3-2. In both contests, Hun coach Jack Huckel felt his players had the better of it, shots hitting the post and so on, "but we just weren't able to stick the ball in the net."

Hun will entertain Lawrenceville School this Wednesday at 2:30 and will travel to Hightstown Saturday at 1 for a game with Peddie as part of the latter's Parents' Day celebration.

Chris Dollard scored both Hun goals in the loss to Delbarton and also the lone goal against Rutgers Prep.

Still Time for PP&K

There is still time to register for the 17th annual Punt, Pass and Kick competition sponsored by the Ford Dealers of America in cooperation with the National Football League.

There is no entry fee and no special equipment is needed. The competition is limited to youngsters 8 to 13.

The senior left striker has now made eight of Hun's 11 goals. "We let him come to the middle to give him room and it has opened it up for us," commented Huckel.

"I think we're coming along. We're playing good defense but we're having trouble scoring."

The Peugeot Diesel: An economy car for the self-indulgent.

Our Peugeot Diesel has much the same headroom and legroom as you'd find in a full-size luxury car. It comes with luxuries like power-assisted rack and pinion steering, four-wheel power disc brakes, fully reclining front bucket seats, two-stage metallic paint, a sliding sunroof, and four-wheel independent suspension for a smooth, stable ride—all as standard equipment. And now an optional three-speed automatic transmission.

But this incredibly luxurious car also gives you the economy of a diesel engine. You won't need any tune-ups. Just change the oil and filter by the book.

You won't need many fill-ups, either, because the Peugeot Diesel gets 35 mpg highway and 28 mpg city, according to EPA estimates.* And to top it off, diesel fuel nationally averages about 9¢ less per gallon than gasoline.†

So come in for a test drive. Because with a Peugeot Diesel, you can indulge yourself. And tell your friends you're just being practical.

Vicki Phillips won the number one singles, 6-0, 6-2, and Beth Ellia triumphed in the number two match, 7-5, 6-1. Princeton's only loss came in the number three singles, as Debbie Blair dropped a 2-6, 1-6 match.

In doubles play, twins Sarah and Lisa Merians, playing in their first match, won easily, 6-1, 6-0. Newcomers to PHS this year, they played tennis last year for Wardlaw-Hartridge School. They are juniors.

Carol Ludlum and Jane Arrington triumphed in the other doubles, 6-1, 6-1. PHS will be at Hightstown Thursday for a Colonial Valley Conference match.

PDS GETS "MUST" WIN
Over Englewood. Montclair Next. By the slimmest of margins, and no more than couple of feet, the Princeton Day football team won the game it "had to" Saturday, a 7-6 squeaker over Englewood in the pouring rain Saturday.

As was the case a year ago, when the Panthers were routed in their opening game by Chestnut Hill, a victory against Englewood was imperative to keep the season from falling apart.

Now the Blue and White will return home this Saturday against Montclair with a 1-1 mark, and a huge dose of confidence that they can get the job done on the field. Montclair shouldn't be any pushover, but they graduated most the players that helped it gain a 12-7 verdict over PDS last season.

Rebuilding this year, Montclair is using a multiple offense, with a freshman speedster as slot back. They rely on the pass a lot, but not much worked for them in their opener last Saturday. They lost to Riverdale by a wide margin. "It was like us playing Chestnut Hill," commented PDS coach Rob Hoffman.

Olsson Sick. Saturday's victory over Englewood was achieved with a sub-par Rob Olsson, something which may have helped tie Blue and White more in the long run. "They proved to themselves they can win without the big guy in there," Hoffman said.

Down, but not quite out with the flu, Olsson nonetheless managed to play the first half, with Hoffman using him on offense only. The durable back carried nineteen times for 90 yards, and helped the Panthers toward their only score.

It came after a scoreless first quarter, on a drive that started from around midfield. Olsson and halfback Chris Price who gained 56 yards in 12 carries got the ball down to the Montclair 19.

On third and six, Freda rolled to the right, and appeared to be ready to run. His action forced the cornerback up to meet him, but at the last moment he lofted a pass into the waiting arms of sophomore Billy Haynes who ran into the end zone from six yards out. Price converted and the Panthers led 7-0.

The third quarter was also scoreless, and most of the fourth until near the end. Montclair drove deep into PDS territory, only to be set back by two major penalties. This forced them to kick, but PDS fumbled the punt and Montclair recovered on the PDS 25.

Just 45 seconds remained when Chris Lenskold scored from five yards out to make it 7-6. There was no question that Montclair would go for the two-point conversion, they had no one who could kick if the coach had wanted a tie.

The ball was snapped to Lenskold, but before he could move he was downed. Unfortunately, PDS was guilty of a face mask violation, and Englewood got another try, this time from 1 1/2 yards out. Lenskold again tried to run it in, but Don Gips was there to stop him just short of the goal line.

its first victory this season. The Panthers will have all week to prepare for their fourth chance, a contest against a strong cross-town rival, Princeton High. "A win here would really turn us around and put us on top psychologically for the rest of the season," commented coach Alan Taback.

"We have a young team, getting better, and gaining confidence with each game. These defeats haven't really bothered the girls."

One of the prime things Taback plans to work on this week is shots on net. Friday, PDS lost 1-0 to J.P. Stevens, although it outshot the winners 17-3. The visitors had a good, experienced goalie who came out to make numerous saves, but she was helped several times when the Panthers shot the ball right at her. Gail Levy had Stevens' lone score in the second quarter.

Last Tuesday a goal by Virginai Ferrante enabled the Blue and White to hold on to a 1-0 lead for three periods, but Edison High broke through in the fourth to win on a pair of goals by Barbara Logan.

FIRST WIN, ELUSIVE
For PDS Girls' Soccer over Morristown-Beard and Team. The Princeton Day girls' soccer team suffered a pair of one-goal losses last week, and is still looking for

PDS WINS TWICE
In Soccer. A pair of victories over Morristown-Beard and George School elevated the record of the Princeton Day soccer team to 3-0 last week. This Wednesday, the Panthers will play Delbarton at home, and Saturday they will play host to Montclair. Delbarton should provide the tougher opposition of the two.

Tony Dell continued his superb play in the goal registering the shutout against Morristown, and splitting the time in the next with Johnny Rodgers. Coming off a back injury, Rodgers also played well, making two fine saves off a one-on-one situation.

Against George, Chris Bundy scored his first goal ever, and Mike Walters added another near the end of the first half. PDS was content to play defensively in the second half.

Walters had a hat trick against Morristown in a sloppily played game. Jay Nusblatt, Ralph Ross and Larry Pierson also tallied. Walters now has seven goals in three games.

Coach Tom DeVito praised the play of Joe Lapseley at sweeperback, filling in for an injured Andy Sandford, out with a pulled groin muscle.

"I think this team has better depth than last year's," DeVito commented. Sandford is expected back for Saturday's contest.

PDS GIRLS UNDEFEATED
In Field Hockey. Off to an excellent start, the Princeton Day field hockey team has won its first three games, but this Wednesday may be its first big test of the season. At 3:30 away the Blue and White will meet Hopewell Valley.

Coach Melissa Nagee reports the girls are progressing in teamwork with each game. In the opener, they beat Hightstown 2-1, and last week blanked two opponents, George, 2-0, and Northern Burlington, 5-0.

Co-captain Suzanne Vine and Harriet Brainard had two goals apiece against Northern Burlington and Linda Litell scored the other. Ms. Magee praised the play of "links" Sarah Woodworth and co-captain Michele Plante and freshman Barbara Zeitler in the goal.

WW VS. LAWRENCE
In Football Saturday. West Windsor will play its first Colonial Valley Conference game Saturday when it meets Lawrence High at 1:30 at Lawrence.

Golf Title Defended

Harold Crane won on the 19th hole at Springdale Golf Club Sunday over Will Starks to keep the President's Cup. It was Crane's third triumph in the annual tournament in the last four years, as he added victories in 1974 and '76 to his success this season.

Starks rallied from a three-hole deficit in the 18-hole match to send the final round into sudden death. After holing out from well off the green on the 17th for a birdie 3, he parred the 18th with a 4. Crane then won the first extra hole with a bogey 5 when Starks hit an overhanging branch trying to get out of a trap on the right of the green.

In semi-final matches Saturday, Starks edged Jack Sweeney, 1 up, while Crane was turning back Charlie Bardwell, 4 and 3.

In their opener last week, the Pirates forced Mountain Lakes, the defending Group I champion, to come from behind to earn a 13-7 victory. The first three quarters were scoreless.

In the fourth, Mountain Lake's Chris Palazzi, who made both of his team's touchdowns and rushed for 150 yards, scored on a 35-yard run. The run for the conversion failed.

West Windsor's Chris Gillette then stunned the visitors when he returned a kickoff 85 yards and when Mark Birnbaum kicked the extra point, the Pirates had a 7-6 lead. Palazzi erased that, however, when he broke free again for a 45-yard scoring scamper, leaving the home team with thoughts of what might have been.

HUN BLANKED IN OPENER

Losing String Extended. The last time a Hun football team walked off the field a winner was seven games ago when it defeated Peddie in the second week of the 1976 season.

After suffering through a 24-0 defeat Saturday in its opener with Newark Academy, Hun will oppose Peddie in Hightstown this Saturday at 2. Needless to say, Hun coach Dave Leete is hoping Hun can do it again. Like Hun, Peddie dropped its opener last week, losing, 34-23, to Williamson Trade.

"Except for a long run and a short pass (12 yards) for a touchdown, the first half was pretty even; the second half they kind of took it to us," commented Leete on the Newark contest. The home team led at the half, 6-0.

In the second half, Newark got its ground game going, scoring on runs of 5, 10 and 20 yards. Two Newark backs, Ken Alwood and Jeff Gavaman, each carried for more than 100 yards.

For Hun, captain Bob Cronin was outstanding on defense with 10 tackles and three assists. The Hun defense also stopped all four of Newark's extra point attempts, two on the ground and two in the air.

As for Hun's future prospects, "It's hard to say after a loss," said Leete. "It's hard to make a judgment after a game played in the rain." Although the rain-soaked field affected play, Leete was quick to add that conditions were equal for both teams.

Hun, said Leete, was able to move the ball in the first half and that while quarterback E.T. Roach suffered a few interceptions, the passes he did complete "were on the money."
